EXPLOSION HITS AFRO-ASIAN PALACE — The new Conference Palace in Algiers, scene of the upcoming summit session, was rocked by a violent explosion that wrecked part of its electrical system. The Afro-Asian summit has now been postponed to Nov. 5, mainly due to the internal Algerian political situation.

Red China Loses Face in Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Red China lost considerable face because the Asian-African conference was postponed despite vigorous Chinese insistence that it be held on schedule.

Communist China was forced to back down in the face of overwhelming sentiment against the meeting of chiefs of state this week in the tense Algerian capital.

The Chinese reluctantly joined the other delegates in voting unanimously Saturday to reschedule the meeting for Nov. 5 in Algiers. A preconference meeting of foreign ministers was set for Oct. 28.

The vote came a day after part of the conference building at the Club des Pins, 12 miles west of the city, was wrecked by a mysterious explosion. This and nightly demonstrations in Algiers against the ouster of President Ahmed Ben Bella prompted the delay.

Helmeted policemen, armed with tear gas grenades and sub-machine guns, were braced for further protests.

Leaflets were circulated calling for renewed demonstrations against the coup led by Col. Houari Boumedienne.

One group called for a general strike today. Another urged Ben Bella's supporters to hang saucers on their balconies in a "casserole concert" of protest.

Foreign ministers and diplomats who came here for the Asian-African conference, tried to book air passage home.

One Asian diplomat observed that Red China had painted itself into a corner by going ahead with a high-pressure campaign for holding the conference on schedule.

For the Chinese, the conference represented a desirable setting for propaganda blasts against the United States at a time when worldwide sentiment for peace talks on Viet Nam appeared to be growing. Peking has rebuffed all peace efforts.

The Chinese charged "imperialists and reactionaries" with obstructing and sabotaging the conference.

Premier Chou En-lai had flown to Cairo nine days ago in preparation for going on to Algiers. He had to content himself with a tiny summit conference with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Indonesian President Sukarno.

The three met for an hour and a quarter Sunday and scheduled more talks Tuesday. No statement was issued.

The first Soviet shipment of aid wheat to Egypt — 8,845 tons — arrived aboard the Soviet freighter Dubossary in Alexandria. Workers and crowds along the dock cheered "Long live Soviet-U.A.R. friendship."

A few hours earlier the American freighter Sabrina left Alexandria after unloading 24,000 tons of U.S. wheat. There were neither cheers nor welcoming crowds for the American vessel.

DeLau, chief of homicide, said Walter Lee DeBolt, 22, of Cleveland had admitted beating Robert W. Burke after Burke came upon him and an 18-year-old companion Tuesday in the offices of the Miller Supply Co.

Burke, secretary-treasurer of the firm, died the following day at St. Alexis Hospital.

The lieutenant said the 18-year-old would be charged as an accomplice.

U.N. Observes It's Birthday

7 Religious Faiths In Quest for Peace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United Nations, now 20 years old, ended a birthday party in the city of its birth with leaders of seven religious faiths, embracing more than two billion people, joining in support of the U.N. quest for peace.

The three-day commemorative session, mainly a gala 114-nation celebration of pomp and ceremony, began Friday with moments of silent meditation, as it had in 1945. It ended Sunday in a huge religious convocation.

In between a crackling exchange over Viet Nam by the Soviet Union and United States ambassadors underscored a warning by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant that the cold war seems to be intensifying and threatening to spread to untouched areas of the world.

In a sharp break from the commemorative session's polite and restrained tone, the Soviet Union's Nikolai T. Fedorenko Saturday caustically termed as an "odd sermon" President Johnson's call Friday for the U.N. delegates to concern themselves with the war in Viet Nam.

"Is it not known by all that the dirty aggressive war in Viet Nam was unleashed by the United States?" asked the tall, bespectacled Soviet ambassador.

3 Prisoners Use Homemade Arms In Futile Jailbreak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three prisoners armed with homemade pistols and a bomb seized two guards and briefly took over the second floor of the hospital at Western State Penitentiary Sunday night.

A squad of guards crushed the rebellion with tear gas. The hostages were freed unharmed.

The bomb, fashioned from crushed match heads jammed into a piece of pipe, blew up in the rush on the prisoners' stronghold.

It shattered the hand of inmate Richard Mayberry, 27, a convicted robber doing extra time for leading a sensational attempted prison break and riot in Philadelphia two years ago.

He was the only person hurt in the rebellion which involved only three of the prison's 950 inmates. Other prisoners banged on their bars and yelled but authorities said it was unrelated "horseplay."

Coalition with Viet Reds Hit by Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen said today anyone who talks about U.S. concessions in the Vietnamese war should be specific. He warned against establishing a South Vietnamese coalition government which would include Communists.

Speaking on the Republican National Committee radio program "Comment," the GOP Senate leader said:

"Any who talk of concessions by the United States have an obligation to specify the kinds of concessions which they are prepared to advocate."

"Senator Fulbright suggests the Geneva agreements of 1954 'in all their specifications' as a basis for settling the conflict in Viet Nam. But this agreement, as Secretary Rusk acknowledged in 1962 contained a fatal flaw in providing veto power to the Communist member of the international commission established to supervise the execution of the terms of the Geneva settlement."

"This mistake must be avoided in any future peace settlement. So must the mistake of establishing a coalition government with Communist participation for South Viet Nam. Bitter experience should have taught us that such a coalition merely defers a Communist takeover."

Dirksen's personal references were to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

In a June 15 speech to the Senate, Fulbright said U.S. policy "has been — and should remain — one of determination to end the war at the earliest possible time by a negotiated settlement involving major concessions by both sides."

He did not specify what these concessions were, but said one possible term of settlement might be acceptance of the 1954 Geneva accords "in all their specifications."

16 Die as Reds Down U.S. Plane

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Guerrilla fire downed a twin-engine C123 transport 13 miles east of Saigon's airport Sunday night and military officials and civilians reported today 16 bodies were taken from the wreckage.

U.S. military spokesmen announced a U.S. Air Force officer and an enlisted man were killed. They declined to give other details, including the total number of casualties. Their reticence indicated the plane was on a secret mission.

American and Vietnamese visitors to the crash area, however, said the plane slammed into a farmhouse. One military source said he understood it carried 20 men — all Americans — and that all had been killed.

The two officially announced deaths brought the list of Americans killed in Viet Nam by enemy action to 429.

Psychological warfare mingled with bombings in continued air raids on Communist North Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman announced

U.S. Air Force planes dumped 2.5 million cartoon leaflets over five North Vietnamese cities, urging residents to oppose the Hanoi government.

All the cities were South of Hanoi. They are known centers of Roman Catholicism or other groups potentially likely to be opposed to the Communist government.

The U.S. spokesman said the drops were the beginning of a major leaflet campaign to be carried out in North Viet Nam "below a certain line" south of Hanoi. The northernmost city was the Catholic community of Phat Diem, 55 miles south of Hanoi. The others were Thanh Hoa, Bai Thuong, Dong Phoi Thuong and Ninh Binh.

No ground fire or enemy planes were spotted, and all eight planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

The leaflets, with cartoons on one side and a text on the other, charged that the Hanoi government was taking rice from the people to feed its troops in South Viet Nam.

Four Americans were killed Sunday night and today in Viet Nam, U.S. authorities announced.

Early Bird Phone Service Is Opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson formally inaugurated commercial telephone service by satellite today with a transatlantic call relayed by the Early Bird satellite.

Immediately after the President's call, stressing the influence of global communications on world peace, other calls were made in French, German, and Italian by officials of those countries.

Great Britain and Canada also took part.

The conversations were clear and indistinguishable from the usual transatlantic calls by submarine cable.

The Early Bird satellite, hanging 22,300 miles above the Atlantic between Brazil and Africa, is the product of a joint venture of 44 countries, with more nations expected to join. Membership is obtained through the Communications Satellite Corporation.

The Federal Communications Commission has temporarily approved the leasing of Early Bird circuits for $4,200 a month for telephone and telegraph traffic, and up to $5,245 an hour for television transmission during peak usage hours.

A later determination will be made as to whether the rates prove fair.

Pre-July 4 Fireworks Slated on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rent subsidy provision and an amendment dealing with patents stemming from government-financed medical research may touch off some pre-July Fourth fireworks on Capitol Hill.

The Senate votes today on a bill which would establish regional medical centers to combat heart disease, cancer and strokes. It would provide $650 million in federal grants over the next four years for medical complexes composed of medical schools, research institutions and hospitals.

No opposition was voiced Friday when the measure, a major part of President Johnson's health program, came up in the Senate.

But an amendment by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., stirred controversy. It would give the government exclusive rights to any inventions developed through research financed under the program.

Long contends that private patents should not be issued on products developed through research for which the taxpayers pick up the tab. Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., floor manager of the

In the House, the Johnson administration may get its toughest test of the session when a housing bill containing a controversial rent subsidy provision is voted on.

It is one of three major measures the House hopes to dispose of before its members take an extended weekend recess for Independence Day oratory in home districts.

The housing bill is on Tuesday's House docket. Republicans hope for substantial Democratic help in attempting to eliminate the subsidy provision.

The Senate has not yet acted on the measure, but its Banking Committee has approved a modified subsidy plan.

The other controversial bills the House hopes to act on are the administration's Economic Opportunity Act — known as the antipoverty bill — and a measure to reduce or eliminate the silver content in coins. The Senate passed its version of the coinage bill last week.

Film Actor Dies Aboard His Schooner

GUATEMALA (AP) — The death of film actor Steve Cochran, 48, aboard his schooner at sea off Guatemala was attributed today to an acute lung infection.

Dr. Abel Giron said the lung infection caused paralysis. Cochran's body was aboard his 40-foot schooner Rogue, towed into the Guatemalan port of Champerico Saturday. Also aboard were three Mexican women who said the actor died June 15 after he became paralyzed and could move only his head.

The women were identified as Eva Montero Castellanos, 25, a seamstress; Eugenia Bautista Zacarias, 19, a laundress; and Lorenze Infante de la Rosa, 14.

The girls told authorities in Champerico that Cochran hired them in Acapulco, Mexico, at the beginning of June to work as maids and helpers aboard the boat. They left Acapulco June 3 en route down the Pacific Coast to Costa Rica.

A bad storm June 12-13 damaged the foremast and stopped the engines. Cochran fixed the mast but soon after complained of pains in his legs which later spread to his chest, arms and head, the girls said.

The actor took to his cabin and his fever began to rise. The girls quoted Cochran as saying "Please don't leave me alone," and at another time, "God, what will happen to you if I should die?"

He instructed them on how to steer the sloop and told them: "One of you must always be at the helm."

When found, the only food they had left were potatoes.

The housing bill is on Tuesday's House docket. Republicans hope for substantial Democratic help in attempting to eliminate the subsidy provision.

The Senate has not yet acted on the measure, but its Banking Committee has approved a modified subsidy plan.

The other controversial bills the House hopes to act on are the administration's Economic Opportunity Act — known as the antipoverty bill — and a measure to reduce or eliminate the silver content in coins. The Senate passed its version of the coinage bill last week.

Motorcyclist Is Injured

Mrs. Mary R. Miller, 42, Chillicothe, was injured at 6:12 p. m. yesterday on Route 23 just south of Route 22 when a motorcycle on which she was riding veered out of control and struck a car.

The motorcycle was driven by Mrs. Miller's husband, Clarence, 42, of Chillicothe. It was extensively damaged.

Rights Party Wants Blood Segregated

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The organizer of the Montgomery County branch of the National States Rights Party says the group is going to campaign for passage of a law requiring that the race of the donor be attached to each bottle of blood in a blood bank.

R. D. Eldridge told of the campaign before 55 persons Sunday in what had been described beforehand as a "big white people's rally."

Eldridge said "It's a scientific fact that if your children receive a transfusion of Negro blood, there is a possibility your grandchildren will be born mulatto."

Dr. Robert A. Vogel, Montgomery County health commissioner, contacted after the rally and asked to comment on Eldridge's statement, said, "This is absolutely ridiculous. It is genes, not blood, that determine the race of a person. Blood has absolutely nothing to do with it."

'15 or So' Atom Smasher Sites Eyed in AEC Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission within two or three weeks hopes to settle on the "15 or so" best possibilities for location of the world's biggest atom smasher.

Since the $280 million project was announced, the commission has been flooded with 98 petitions from states, counties, cities or individuals boosting sites for location of the big basic research accelerator.

The requirements of a proposed location must include good, but cheap land, ample supplies of low-cost water and electricity, air travel availability, cultural and scientific amenities and community readiness to cooperate.

Most applicants have stuck to these needs, AEC Research Director Paul McDaniel said. But not all.

"For sheer gall," he said, "no proposal topped that of a man who offered to sell us land he had under option at $80 an acre for $800 per acre."

The AEC says it needs 3,000 acres as a minimum for the facility.

Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex., made a joint offer to condemn land and put up $2 million toward its purchase as a gift to the federal government.

Kentucky offered to float a $300 million bond issue to finance the whole enterprise.

A number of states pointed out the availability of land the federal government already owns within their borders.

Ohio suggested the Army's Ravenna Ammunition Loading Plant, now idle.

Indiana held a special session of its legislature to authorize the governor to condemn land for the needed acreage.

The National Academy of Sciences will recommend the outstanding possibilities to the AEC commissioners by the end of this year. Then the choice will be submitted to the President.

Darbyville Man Fined $235 In City Court on 4 Counts

Francis Kneee, 37, Darbyville, today was handed fines totaling $235 plus costs on four separate counts by Acting Municipal Court Judge David Kraft.

Kneee was arrested a week ago by the State Highway Patrol for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

After being brought to the Circleville Police Department to be cited by the arresting officer, Kneee allegedly became belligerent. He also created a disturbance at Berger Hospital where he was taken for a blood test, according to authorities.

He was charged with assaulting a police officer, disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct by City Police. Judge Kraft levied a fine of $150 and costs for OMVI, sentenced the defendant to three days in the county jail and ordered his driver's rights suspended for six months.

Kneee was fined $50 and costs for assault and $25 and costs for disturbing the peace.

A $10 fine levied for disorderly conduct was suspended. Kneee entered a plea of innocent to the assault charge and guilty to the other three.

Motorists who appeared in court Friday afternoon were: Elmo Adams, 34, Galion; $10 an costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Carol Roll, 24, Columbus; $12 and costs with $6 of the fine suspended for speeding 72 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Harriet Barnhart, 31, Delaware; $15 an costs with $5 of the fine suspended for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

U.N. Observes

(Continued from Page One) Adlai E. Stevenson fired back: "I must say that the Soviet Union might do more by encouraging the peaceful purposes of the United Nations than by attacking my country for protecting a small country from aggression and, indeed, assisting the aggressor."

Before the exchange, U Thant had said the cold war appeared to be intensifying and expanding, then cautioned that the trend "must be arrested and reversed if humanity is to be saved from the scourge of war."

'Sunday's convocation of Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Greek Orthodox, Christians, Hindus, Buddhists and Moslems was a solemn display of religious unity in support of the United Nations. It was staged in San Francisco's vast Cow Palace. Police estimated attendance at about 7,000.

The surprise of the commemorative session was its failure to deal openly with the United Nations' financial plight because of such refusals as the Soviet Union's to pay for U.N. activities in the Congo.

President Johnson omitted treatment of the subject in his speech Friday but afterward conferred for more than an hour with U Thant. Following that unscheduled meeting, diplomatic sources said there was reason to believe the United States would make a substantial contribution in line with Great Britain's announced gift of $10 million and those of other countries toward U.N. solvency.

Ohio Schools Warned on 'Head Start'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Chester W. Goble warned Ohio school officials today not to join President Johnson's Project Head Start program unless their local school district has given official sanction.

He said that procedure without official approval is an improper expenditure of public funds.

"There is no authority for a private individual or a school official or a group of school officials to enter into such contractual obligations when state law requires action by the school board," Goble said.

Project Head Start calls for a series of centers to train pre-kindergarten children.

The idea, as proposed in the Johnson Administration's anti-poverty program, is to give disadvantaged children extra training, or a "head start."

The federal government finances 90 per cent of the program. Local schools provide the remaining 10 per cent.

But Goble, reporting that a number of such programs in Ohio have been contracted for without school board approval, said such agreements are not legal.

A statement from his office did not name any specific school districts.

Goldwater has said his organization would need about $100,000 annually but in the long run would save the party money. But some party leaders had doubts about whether such groups would help or harm the national party organization.

A cross-section survey by The Associated Press turned up these opinions:

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania: "I don't approve of breaking up or proliferating the Republican party's cause. I've never joined any of the moderate groups that started up. I've never been a participant in them because I believe the party needs unity and needs everybody in it. It does not feel that in the long run the so-called 'splinter' groups will help the Republican cause."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House minority leader: "It would be better if all such organizations were within the framework of the regular Republican organization. But if they are not, we will utilize their assistance and support."

Former Rep. Robert Taft Jr.: "I'm generally against the formation of so-called splinter groups. Research groups formed for a specific purpose are generally all right. But right now I feel Republicans should concentrate on supporting the party organization rather than straying aside into splinter groups."

Eldridge said "It's a scientific fact that if your children receive a transfusion of Negro blood, there is a possibility your grandchildren will be born mulatto."

'15 or So' Atom Smasher Sites Eyed in AEC Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission within two or three weeks hopes to settle on the "15 or so" best possibilities for location of the world's biggest atom smasher.

Since the $280 million project was announced, the commission has been flooded with 98 petitions from states, counties, cities or individuals boosting sites for location of the big basic research accelerator.

The requirements of a proposed location must include good, but cheap land, ample supplies of low-cost water and electricity, air travel availability, cultural and scientific amenities and community readiness to cooperate.

Most applicants have stuck to these needs, AEC Research Director Paul McDaniel said. But not all.

"For sheer gall," he said, "no proposal topped that of a man who offered to sell us land he had under option at $80 an acre for $800 per acre."

The AEC says it needs 3,000 acres as a minimum for the facility.

Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex., made a joint offer to condemn land and put up $2 million toward its purchase as a gift to the federal government.

Kentucky offered to float a $300 million bond issue to finance the whole enterprise.

A number of states pointed out the availability of land the federal government already owns within their borders.

Ohio suggested the Army's Ravenna Ammunition Loading Plant, now idle.

Indiana held a special session of its legislature to authorize the governor to condemn land for the needed acreage.

The National Academy of Sciences will recommend the outstanding possibilities to the AEC commissioners by the end of this year. Then the choice will be submitted to the President.

Darbyville Man Fined $235 In City Court on 4 Counts

Francis Kneee, 37, Darbyville, today was handed fines totaling $235 plus costs on four separate counts by Acting Municipal Court Judge David Kraft.

Kneee was arrested a week ago by the State Highway Patrol for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

After being brought to the Circleville Police Department to be cited by the arresting officer, Kneee allegedly became belligerent. He also created a disturbance at Berger Hospital where he was taken for a blood test, according to authorities.

He was charged with assaulting a police officer, disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct by City Police. Judge Kraft levied a fine of $150 and costs for OMVI, sentenced the defendant to three days in the county jail and ordered his driver's rights suspended for six months.

Kneee was fined $50 and costs for assault and $25 and costs for disturbing the peace.

A $10 fine levied for disorderly conduct was suspended. Kneee entered a plea of innocent to the assault charge and guilty to the other three.

Motorists who appeared in court Friday afternoon were: Elmo Adams, 34, Gallon; $10 an costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Carol Roll, 24, Columbus; $12 and costs with $6 of the fine suspended for speeding 72 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Harriet Barnhart, 31, Delaware; $15 an costs with $5 of the fine suspended for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Anrew Kern, 50, Columbus; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

In other action, the VFW advanced Sam Frutoso of Hamilton to state commander and named William Nelson of Enon, Clark County, as senior vice commander.

Other officers named were Myron Young of Ellsworth, near Youngstown, junior vice commander; Allee J. Reeb, Columbus, quartermaster, and John Ringhisen, anesville, judge advocate.

The VFW now occupies rent-free headquarters in the Wyandotte Building downtown in the capital.

The VFW closing its annual convention here, authorized a committee to negotiate for purchase of the Cambridge Arms Apartments, 926 E. Broad St., at a price not to exceed $550,000.

U.N. Observes

(Continued from Page One) Adlai E. Stevenson fired back: "I must say that the Soviet Union might do more by encouraging the peaceful purposes of the United Nations than by attacking my country for protecting a small country from aggression and, indeed, assisting the aggressor."

Before the exchange, U Thant had said the cold war appeared to be intensifying and expanding, then cautioned that the trend "must be arrested and reversed if humanity is to be saved from the scourge of war."

"Sunday's convocation of Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Greek Orthodox, Christians, Hindus, Buddhists and Moslems was a solemn display of religious unity in support of the United Nations. It was staged in San Francisco's vast Cow Palace. Police estimated attendance at about 7,000.

The surprise of the commemorative session was its failure to deal openly with the United Nations' financial plight because of such refusals as the Soviet Union's to pay for U.N. activities in the Congo.

President Johnson omitted treatment of the subject in his speech Friday but afterward conferred for more than an hour with U Thant. Following that unscheduled meeting, diplomatic sources said there was reason to believe the United States would make a substantial contribution in line with Great Britain's announced gift of $10 million and those of other countries toward U.N. solvency.

Goldwater has said his organization would need about $100,000 annually but in the long run would save the party money. But some party leaders had doubts about whether such groups would help or harm the national party organization.

A cross-section survey by The Associated Press turned up these opinions:

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania: "I don't approve of breaking up or proliferating the Republican party's cause. I've never joined any of the moderate groups that started up. I've never been a participant in them because I believe the party needs unity and needs everybody in it. It does not feel that in the long run the so-called 'splinter' groups will help the Republican cause."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House minority leader: "It would be better if all such organizations were within the framework of the regular Republican organization. But if they are not, we will utilize their assistance and support."

Former Rep. Robert Taft Jr.: "I'm generally against the formation of so-called splinter groups. Research groups are generally all right. But right now I feel Republicans should concentrate on supporting the party organization rather than straying aside into splinter groups."

Paying the Rent

A group of House Republicans has jumped on President Johnson's proposal for federal rent subsidies as a welfare state idea that goes too far. They hope to be able to hand the President his first legislative setback of the session on the controversial issue.

They couldn't have picked a better subject to attack. The rent-aid plan should be defeated. Under the plan, too many families can qualify — including many that don't need help.

Housing Administrator Robert C.

The Business World

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has ignored all the reassuring words from Washington officials and all the pleasant statistics of business and consumer prosperity. Traders, brokers, government and corporate officials are busy trying to agree on the reasons for sliding prices.

Most cite the moderate trading volume, compared to some previous price breaks, as evidence that this has been a buyer's strike rather than a rush to dump stocks. Several security analysts say the mood is caution—not the "gloom and doom" that President Johnson warned against.

And the drop in the United States has been smaller this year than in many overseas stock markets.

Weaver would be given authority to set income ceilings — that is to determine how much a family could make and still qualify for a rent subsidy.

In New York City, for example, the ceiling, as projected, would be $8,900. Ceilings would vary in different cities. Still, it's impossible to imagine a family with that much income drawing a monthly check from the government to help pay the rent.

It's a mischievous plan that should be tossed into the waste basket.

Even so, measured by popular averages, prices on the New York Stock Exchange have canceled all the gain of this year. The bellwethers have dropped 9 per cent from the high point reached May 14. But the price decline, though persistent, has not been as steep as in some past breaks, notably the one just three years ago. The 1961-62 tumble was 27 per cent.

The Dow-Jones index of 30 industrials Friday dipped below the low point (857.45) reached last December before the market rallied from its last major-weak spell.

Most brokers seem to agree that the public hasn't taken fright. Those businessmen who are going on the record insist that the Wall Street tremors haven't changed their plans to expand for future business nor their predictions that the rest of this year should see healthy, if unspectacular, gains.

Why the caution of late? The Viet Nam war, the Dominican crisis, the alarms now and then around Berlin, all make people cautious. Also, the current economic upswing is 52 months old, a peacetime record. There is a debate over whether it can continue to climb much longer, whether it will level off, or turn down.

Do medicines lose their potency if they are kept for a long time?

Mrs. K. H. G., Texas Dear Mrs. G.: The shelf life of most medications is long. You will find stamped on antibiotics and many other drugs the expiration date. This is usually a very conservative one, but should be followed for complete safety.

If you do take an antibiotic and later see that the expiration date has passed, there is no need for panic.

Solutions of medicines usually do not show an expiration date. Particular care is needed with such drugs, even though their usefulness is not affected by time.

They can, however, be affected by evaporation. Medicines can become very strong and concentrated if the alcohol or water is evaporated.

A good illustration is a solution of iodine which becomes stronger the longer it stands on the shelf. It can cause a severe burn.

The safety of a medicine cabinet can be insured if all medicines are labeled and dated. If medicines are kept for a long time keep a record of why and when they were last used.

Miss B. F., Illinois Dear Miss F.: Ovulation is that short time when the female egg is released by the ovary. This is the time when the egg is ready to be fertilized by the male sperm.

Recently, it has been found that ovulation can occur even eight to 10 days after the start of menstruation.

Bliss and the Two Parties

By John Chamberlain

Ray Bliss, the Republican National Chairman, has sure stirred up the animals by his attack on the Free Society Association that has been formed by Barry Goldwater "to clean up all of the fuzziness about the word 'conservative.'" The attack is resented as flagrantly partisan, and, coming from the particular party official who should be the most scrupulous of all in holding the balance between conservatives, moderates and radicals, it is bound to have the most unfortunate effects on Republican campaigning for 1966.

"What a strange way of showing loyalty," said one highly placed Republican who helped nominate Goldwater but who, as a Nixon man, is far removed from any kook fringe of the party. "Ray Bliss was Goldwater's own personal choice as a compromise chairman. Goldwater trusted him. Now he has singled out Barry's study and paper-writing group for criticism as a splinter element that is bound to dilute support of the official Republican organization. The irony of it is that there are at least eight other similar groups doing position papers and supporting task forces. Why didn't Ray Bliss denounce the Ripon Society or the Trumbull Society? And what about the National Citizens' Committee and Charley Taft's Committee for a Progressive Congress and Warren Sinsheimer's Project 68? All of these are precisely on a par with the Free Society Association, only doing their work from a liberal bias."

A deeper irony is that the same Ray Bliss who has denounced the Free Society Association as detrimental to the "two-party system" has gone out of his way to welcome John Lindsay's bid to become Mayor of New York. Lindsay is deeply committed to winning in New York City by combining as many splinter elements as he can pick up. He is playing the "two-party system" down as Goldwater himself has never played it down.

So, while Ray Bliss is telling the world that Republicans "should present a united front to the opposition" nationally, John Lindsay bends on supplicating knees to Alex Rose, boss of the splinter Liberal Party, and asks for the blessing of a group that is "to the left of the Democratic left." No one is blaming Republican John Lindsay for trying to work up a fusion movement to support him for the mayoralty in a city that is normally a three-to-one shoo-in for a Democrat. But if it is good tactics for Lindsay to cultivate the splinters in New York City, who is it considered bad politics for a Free Society Association to create a study group to promote its own point of view nationally?

What Ray Bliss has not reckoned with is the fact that the two-party system has become unworkable without splinter societies. The Democratic Party, which has far more political sense these days than the Republicans, never denounces a splinter organization. It watches benignly while the Americans for Democratic Action, CORE, and Alex Rose's own New York Liberal Party set up shop to campaign for the particular ideas and the particular Democratic candidates that meet with their approval. It does not care in the least whether a man votes under the Liberal label or the traditional Democratic label as long as Democratic candidates benefit.

If Ray Bliss is really convinced of the need for two-party politics, he might meditate on the fact that the opposition to the single-issue, or fusion, movement in New York City is now centered in the Conservative Party's William Buckley, the editor and columnist who is slated to be named as the Conservative candidate for Mayor by the time these words appear in print. Every other aspirant for the job, whether nominally Republican or Democrat, is busy kowtowing to the Liberal Party's Alex Rose. Next autumn it will be Rose versus Bill Buckley insofar as ideas count. The two splinter extremes will be fighting it out. Rose will win, of course, but Buckley will have the exhilaration that goes with being both witty and sincere.

'Tiger Eyes' Is Going Home

By Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — In a month now the American major whom the Vietnamese call "Tiger Eyes" will be going home, and he's counting the days.

"The bullets seem to hit closer all the time," said Maj. Robert E. Ley, 34, McAlester, Okla., whose wife and four children now live in Edgewater Park, N.J.

"But you can't afford to get overcautious. That's more dangerous than being reckless."

The major, a slender former Army tankman, won his nickname because of his piercing green eyes. He wears a bright orange scarf into battle and comes from a family of warriors.

His grandfather, a Choctaw Indian from Georgia, lost his leg at the age of 13 while fighting for the Confederacy in the Battle of Chickamauga. The major is a 1954 graduate of West Point.

Ley is operations officer of the Da Nang special sector. He and the senior sector adviser, Lt. Col. Charles H. Brown, El Paso, Tex., also an ex-tank officer, have rung up a record here that will make them remembered in South Viet Nam for a long time.

Paying the Rent

A group of House Republicans has jumped on President Johnson's proposal for federal rent subsidies as a welfare state idea that goes too far. They hope to be able to hand the President his first legislative setback of the session on the controversial issue.

They couldn't have picked a better subject to attack. The rent-aid plan should be defeated. Under the plan, too many families can qualify — including many that don't need help.

Housing Administrator Robert C.

Weaver would be given authority to set income ceilings — that is to determine how much a family could make and still qualify for a rent subsidy.

In New York City, for example, the ceiling, as projected, would be $8,900. Ceilings would vary in different cities. Still, it's impossible to imagine a family with that much income drawing a monthly check from the government to help pay the rent.

It's a mischievous plan that should be tossed into the waste basket.

The Business World

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has ignored all the reassuring words from Washington officials and all the pleasant statistics of business and consumer prosperity. Traders, brokers, government and corporate officials are busy trying to agree on the reasons for sliding prices.

Most cite the moderate trading volume, compared to some previous price breaks, as evidence that this has been a buyer's strike rather than a rush to dump stocks. Several security analysts say the mood is caution—not the "gloom and doom" that President Johnson warned against.

And the drop in the United States has been smaller this year than in many overseas stock markets.

Even so, measured by popular averages, prices on the New York Stock Exchange have canceled all the gain of this year. The bellwethers have dropped 9 per cent from the high point reached May 14. But the price decline, though persistent, has not been as steep as in some past breaks, notably the one just three years ago. The 1961-62 tumble was 27 per cent.

The Dow-Jones index of 30 industrials Friday dipped below the low point (857.45) reached last December before the market rallied from its last major weak spell.

Most brokers seem to agree that the public hasn't taken fright. Those businessmen who are going on the record insist that the Wall Street tremors haven't changed their plans to expand for future business nor their predictions that the rest of this year should see healthy, if unspectacular, gains.

Why the caution of late? The Viet Nam war, the Dominican crisis, the alarms now and then around Berlin, all make people cautious. Also, the current economic upswing is 52 months old, a peacetime record. There is a debate over whether it can continue to climb much longer, whether it will level off, or turn down.

Can air conditioning cause allergies and colds?

Mr. K. G. C., Kentucky

Dear Mr. C.: In the practice of medicine, physicians are confronted with patients who insist that "the minute I walk into an air conditioned room I catch a cold." I doubt it. A cold is caused by a germ or a virus that takes time to incubate and produce symptoms of a cold.

Yet there are people who react to air conditioning almost as if they were allergic to it, and almost immediately develop symptoms resembling a cold.

Many people have physical allergies. They react to cold, heat, humidity by developing skin hives and other allergic signs. Perhaps air conditioning must be included in this classification of physical allergies.

There are some people who are so sure they are sensitive to air conditioning that they have developed emotional allergies at the sight of the machine — even when turned off!

Last October their advisory team, consisting of three officers and eight enlisted men, was given the task of helping organize the safety of a 150-square-mile sector. It included the city of Da Nang and its air base.

"We didn't even have a desk at the start," said Ley.

They had six Vietnamese companies strung around the perimeter and two in reserve. Against them was an enemy force roughly equal in number but more experience — four "main force" Viet Cong companies and 750 guerrillas.

"The only way we could beat them was to go out and fight them," said Ley. "We didn't curl up and wait for them to hit us. We took the initiative. We surprised them."

The team organized innumerable patrols and 42 assaults of company size or larger. In one operation they flew 700 men in helicopters to smash an enemy grouping.

Their aggressive record speaks for itself.

"We've killed 400 Viet Cong, captured 400, and taken about 100 weapons," said Ley. "We've had only 25 men killed and 60 wounded. We've never had a man taken prisoner, or one who defected."

"We've never had an American killed or wounded. Our troops have stood and fought. Men won't fight unless they are well led. Our Vietnamese officers are fine."

Twice the Viet Cong made attacks on the air base but failed to reach it. The arrival of U.S. Marines in March left the special sector force free to step up its attacks.

"Now there are only about 200 guerrillas left in the area," said the major. "We figure it is only a matter of hunting them down and shooting them."

Ley likes to go on the operations as well as plan them. He has killed three Viet Cong and been awarded the Vietnamese Gallantry Medal with Silver Star.

Joys of Driving Changed Since 'The Good Old Days'

"Where's the fire?" motorbike cops sarcastically asked speeding (?) automobilists even back in the dear, dead days of 1915.

By JONATHAN EDWARDS
Central Press Correspondent

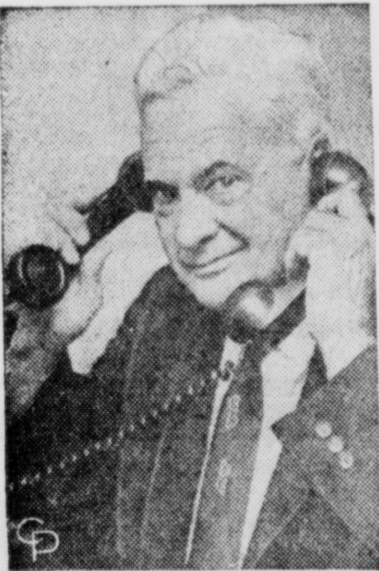

WASHINGTON — What with fast roads and sleek cars, the average motorist thinks nothing today of spiraling along at 60 to 70 miles an hour, but 50 years ago the world was a different place to live in, or, more to the point, to drive in.

That was the year the first motor club was formed in the nation's capital. The American Automobile Association was then 12 years old, but motorists in Washington had no one to protect them from the unsympathetic police, irate pedestrians, drivers of horse-drawn vehicles, and even the horses themselves.

Those were the "good old days" back in 1915 when —

The speed limit was 12 miles an hour. The motorist — they called him automobilist in those days—who wanted to travel in nearby Maryland had to buy separate car tags and operator's license. They didn't especially want him there, anyways. The automobilist scared the horses and chickens.

The same was true for Virginia—more tags, another operator's license—with this difference: outside of neaby Arlington and Alexandria, there were virtually no roads in Virginia capable of supporting the "auto car."

WINS $1.5 MILLION—A Superior Court has ordered the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. to pay $1.5 million in damages to Arthur Garrett (above), who claimed his telephone service was interrupted in Los Angeles because of a campaign he waged against high telephone rates. He filed the suit in 1961.

During the hadj—the pilgrimage every able-bodied Moslem man must perform once in his lifetime, provided he can afford it—each pilgrim must circle the Kaaba seven times, three at a trot and four walking. This must be done on at least three occasions.

There were no filling stations or garages outside Washington. A blacksmith shop or hardware store filled the bill in those days. Here the automobilist could obtain gasoline, cylinder oil, water, and replacements for the nuts and bolts that fell off during the rugged trip, and patch his tube.

Here also feminine riders could remove their dusts and veils, wash off the dust, and relax in the "rest room," possibly the owner's living room, if they were lucky, while the car was being repaired. What is now euphemistically termed a "rest room" was something else, usually behind the house or barn.

The AAA took hold fast in Washington. Within two years after it was formed, President Woodrow Wilson became a member, the first chief executive to do so. After that it became a fixture.

The automobile is so much a part of American life today that many have forgotten how fast has been its advance. It was only 62 years ago that the first cross-continent trip was made, from California to New York in a Winton.

It was as recent as 1920 that an adventuresome Eastern couple made a 126-day trip to the West going as far North as Wyoming and as far South as Texas. There were no road maps, so wherever possible the couple followed the railroad tracks, even when there were no roads.

They carried such essential equipment as block and tackle, pick, shovel, 150 feet of canvas strips (to help traverse soft sand and mud, extra tires, tubes and leaf springs, 150 feet of rope, and a complete tool box.

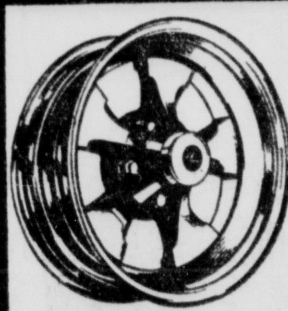

They cached spare tires and tubes at various communities enroute, which showed good foresight, for they experienced as many as three flat tires a day. The trip covered 3,000 miles and they averaged 15 miles an hour.

Things progressed fast after that and within a year or two an AAA official was able to report that as many as one party a week was crossing the continent each summer.

Those days are now largely forgotten, along with many of the automobiles which held sway then—the Overland, Reo, Greater Case, R-C-H, Interstate, Marmon, Mercer, Lion 40, Hayes, Maxwell, Stoddard-Dayton, Lozier, Chalmers, Essex and the Mitchell Baby-6. There were also the White and Stanley Steamers and the Waverly and Chicago Electrics.

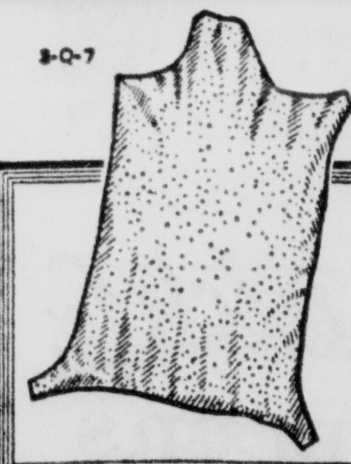

Yes, those were the days when on cold nights you drained the radiator before going to bed and refilled it in the morning. But people weren't so much in a hurry then, back in the "good old days."

Government To Probe For Hazard In Use of Birth Control Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is planning its first close look at a question of vital interest to millions of women:

Is there any long-term hazard, such as the possibility of cancer, in the prolonged use of oral birth control pills?

Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, who disclosed plans for the study, says that until the question is settled one way or the other, women may be taking a chance by using the pills.

But Shannon is not recommending that use of the pills be curbed in the meantime.

Medical experts of the Food and Drug Administration say this:

During the four years since The Pill first went on the market in the United States, nothing has happened — in the nature of proven, serious adverse physical reactions to warrant taking any of these drugs off the market.

Up to now virtually all clinical research into effects of The Pill has been done by private doctors with the support of drug companies that developed the contraceptive or of voluntary agencies that are concerned with family limitation. But some top-flight researchers and hospitals have been involved in the explorations.

DEAD IN REFRIGERATOR — Called by relatives who could not get an answer at a residence in Houston, Tex., police discovered the dismembered bodies of Fred C. Rogers, 81, and his wife, Edwina, 79, in a refrigerator in their home.

At least six million women throughout the world, nearly four million of them in the United States, are estimated to be using the drugs.

The pills work by preventing ovulation — the release of eggs from the ovaries — without which there can be no conception. They do this by setting up a kind of make-believe pregnancy.

Here are some highlights of experience to date:

1. Eight different preparations — all working on the same principal — have now been approved by the FDA for marketing.

2. The drugs are rated as virtually 100 per cent effective in preventing conception.

3. Various studies indicate clearly that if a woman pill-taker decides she wants to have a child — and stops taking the pills — she can become pregnant and have children. All such reported births have apparently been normal. Indeed, there is evidence that fertility is increased in women discontinuing the pills.

4. The Pill is big business. Since the first preparation was approved for prescription in 1960, U.S. sales of oral contraceptives have increased by better than 50 per cent each year to an estimated $40-million level in 1964. During 1964, an estimated 100,000 American women joined the parade of pill-takers each month.

5. All the companies grant that a certain percentage of pill-taking women — up to 25 per cent according to most of the firms — experience some adverse side-effects. The studies say they are not serious effects, and usually become lessened after a few months.

6. From time to time, concern has been voiced by some doctors that the drugs might cause much more serious short-term effects — such as cerebral strokes and thrombophlebitis — blood-clotting in the leg veins of the legs — which can sometimes result in a fatal embolism in the brain or lungs.

But the Food and Drug Administration, among others, say there is as yet no evidence to support such fears, although the agency grants that neither is there definite proof to the contrary.

Controversy over The Pill has also flared in Britain where the Family Planning Association has announced plans to examine the records of 40,000 British women taking the oral contraceptive to see if it can throw any new light on the thrombophlebitis question. All physicians in Britain have been urged to report cases of strokes occurring among women taking the pills.

Dr. Shannon, the NIH chief, was testifying before a House Appropriations subcommittee when the committee chairman, Rep. John E. Fogarty, D-R.I., raised the question whether "people really are taking a chance" as regards long-term hazards of oral contraceptives.

"I believe so," replied Shannon. "There are a great many studies on experimental animals that indicate that they (the drugs) probably can be taken without hazard, but there has not been adequate human exploration to be certain. These (long-term) studies will have to be conducted over a number of years."

Geneva Man Sues City and Policeman

GENEVA, Ohio (AP)—A Geneva man has filed suit for $100,000 against the city and a policeman for an alleged beating at the police station Feb. 23.

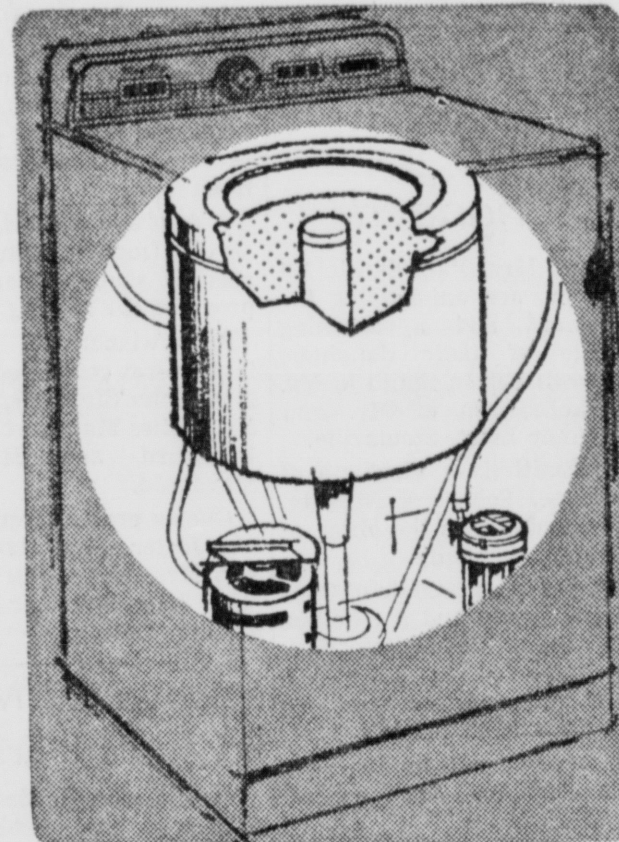

The suit was filed Saturday in Common Pleas Court in Jefferson by Peter Zorbas, who says he suffered a broken nose, two chipped teeth and face bruises in a melee at the police station after his arrest.

Named in the suit were Patrolman Harold F. Brugh, and the city of Geneva.

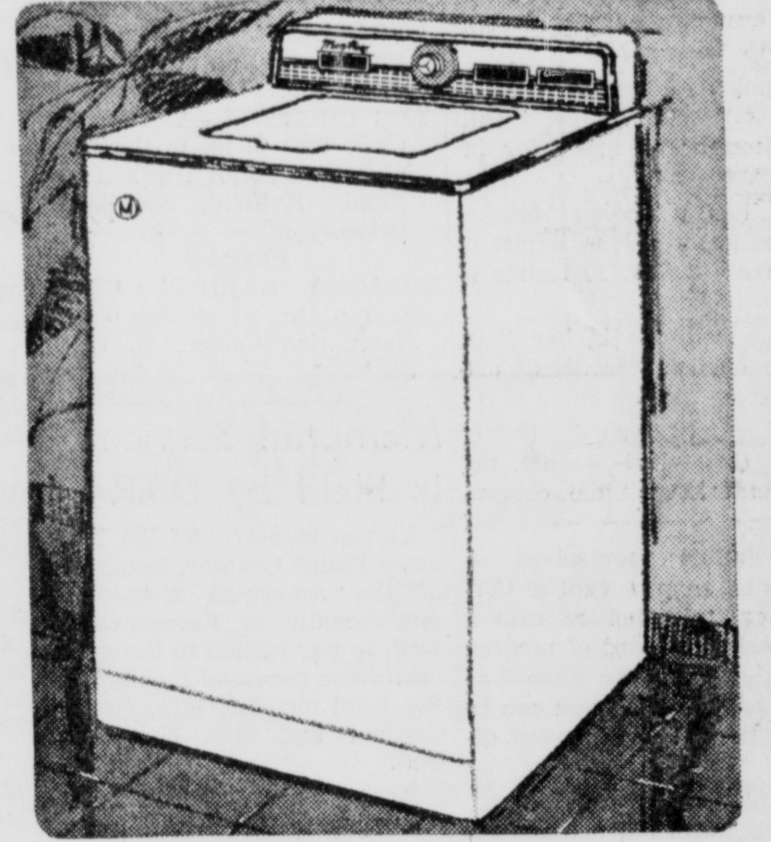

PRE-HISTORIC BONES UNCOVERED—Excavators at the Ship-pingport, Pa., Sand and Gravel Co. uncovered a huge tusk, two teeth and other bones of what apparently was a pre-historic mastodon. Richard Thompson holds the 70-inch, 100-pound tusk of the animal which, he said, Paleo Indians hunted about 18,000 years ago. Keith Goodman of East Liverpool, Ohio, is holding one of the teeth.

Joys of Driving Changed Since 'The Good Old Days'

"Where's the fire?" motorbike cops sarcastically asked speeding (?) automobilists even back in the dear, dead days of 1915.

By JONATHAN EDWARDS
Central Press Correspondent

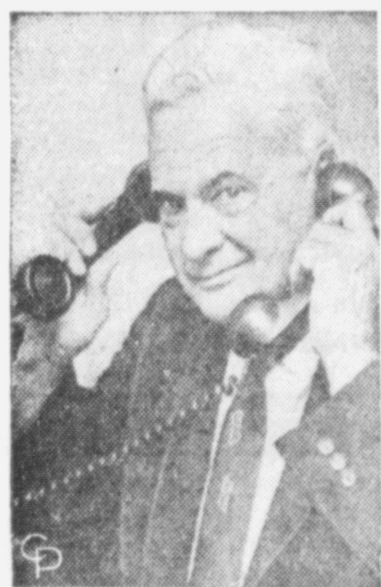

WASHINGTON — What with fast roads and sleek cars, the average motorist thinks nothing today of spiraling along at 60 to 70 miles an hour, but 50 years ago the world was a different place to live in, or, more to the point, to drive in.

That was the year the first motor club was formed in the nation's capital. The American Automobile Association was then 12 years old, but motorists in Washington had no one to protect them from the unsympathetic police, irate pedestrians, drivers of horse-drawn vehicles, and even the horses themselves.

Those were the "good old days" back in 1915 when —

The speed limit was 12 miles an hour. The motorist — they called him automobilist in those days—who wanted to travel in nearby Maryland had to buy separate car tags and operator's license. They didn't especially want him there, anyways. The automobilist scared the horses and chickens.

The same was true for Virginia—more tags, another operator's license—with this difference: outside of nearby Arlington and Alexandria, there were virtually no roads in Virginia capable of supporting the "auto car."

WINS $1.5 MILLION—A Superior Court has ordered the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. to pay $1.5 million in damages to Arthur Garret (above), who claimed his telephone service was interrupted in Los Angeles because of a campaign he waged against high telephone rates. He filed the suit in 1961.

During the hajj—the pilgrimage every able-bodied Moslem man must perform once in his lifetime, provided he can afford it — each pilgrim must circle the Kaaba seven times, three at a trot and four walking. This must be done on at least three occasions.

There were no filling stations or garages outside Washington. A blacksmith shop or hardware store filled the bill in those days. Here the automobilist could obtain gasoline, cylinder oil, water, and replacements for the nuts and bolts that fell off during the rugged trip, and patch his tube.

Here also feminine riders could remove their dusters and veils, wash off the dust, and relax in the "rest room," possibly the owner's living room, if they were lucky, while the car was being repaired. What is now euphemistically termed a "rest room" was something else, usually behind the house or barn.

The AAA took hold fast in Washington. Within two years after it was formed, President Woodrow Wilson became a member, the first chief executive to do so. After that it became a fixture.

The automobile is so much a part of American life today that many have forgotten how fast has been its advance. It was only 62 years ago that the first cross-continent trip was made, from California to New York in a Winton.

It was as recent as 1920 that an adventuresome Eastern couple made a 126-day trip to the West going as far North as Wyoming and as far South as Texas. There were no road maps, so wherever possible the couple followed the railroad tracks, even when there were no roads.

They carried such essential equipment as block and tackle, pick, shovel, 150 feet of canvas strips (to help traverse soft sand and mud, extra tires, tubes and leaf springs, 150 feet of rope, and a complete tool box.

They cached spare tires and tubes at various communities enroute, which showed good foresight, for they experienced as many as three flat tires a day. The trip covered 3,000 miles and they averaged 15 miles an hour.

Things progressed fast after that and within a year or two an AAA official was able to report that as many as one party a week was crossing the continent each summer.

Ashville Area Girls Attend Girls' State

Two Ashville area girls were among the 1,250 girls attending Buckeye Girls' State last week on the campus of Capital University, Columbus.

They were Janet S. Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, Ashville, and Ann Chestora Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Peters, Route 1, Ashville.

By practical participation with the other girls attending the sessions, they faced the functions and problems of government as well as rights, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship.

When the 1965 Girls' State session ended yesterday, it made a total of 13,968 girls who have actively participated over the years in the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary's largest project which is designed to introduce and educate the citizens of tomorrow in democracy.

Miss Snyder's attendance at Girls' State was sponsored by the Welfare Guild. Miss Peters was sponsored by The Teays Valley Future Teachers of America.

DECORATIVE PANELS — Open-work panels are very attractive and are teamed to create room dividers that are as decoratively appealing as they are easy to assemble or take apart. Above, the panels being attached to the spring tension columns are made of styrene.

Attractive Panels Make Room Dividers

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If you have to divide to conquer the problems of inner space, consider doing the job with poles and panels.

The one we have in mind are termed to create room dividers that are as decoratively appealing as they are easy to assemble or to take apart.

The poles — they're so elegant that they're properly called "columns" — make for instant installation.

Each has a spring tension unit that permits it to adjust in height from 7 feet, 10 inches to 8 feet, 6 inches.

If your ceiling's higher than that, extension sections are available.

Once anchored firmly against floor and ceiling, the spring unit keeps the column steadfast.

The columns themselves — there's one topped with a Corinthian capital, another with a fluted design, a third of modern Danish design — are almost as elegant as the panels you can fit between them to make your divider.

Made of high impact styrene, the panels, which are almost 2 feet square, come in a magnificent choice of designs.

One, in antique black or in verdigris jade, looks like a fortune in fabulous Spanish wrought iron.

Another is patterned with a lacy design of philodendron leaves in white or in white-gold finish.

A geometric design of circles and squares that's airy and has contemporary charm comes in gold or white gold.

The open-work panels are strikingly attractive, but if you want to block off a view entirely, a solid panel with a sculptured modern motif is also available. It's impressive, for it has the massive, textured look of stone in a natural sandstone finish. It's also available in gold.

Metal clamps are used to at-

Another way to divide decoratively is to mount shelves on the columns. These come with brackets designed to fit channels built into each of the columns.

The shelves can be had with a laminated plastic marble finish or in genuine walnut veneer.

New Officers Installed By BPW Club

The Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club recently held a dinner meeting at the First Methodist Church, E. Main St.

Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad was in charge of the candlelighting service of installation of the following officers for the 1965-66 club year: Mrs. Roloff Wolford, president; Daisy Karlskint, first vice president; Margie Carmean, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Marion, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Leora Sayre, recording secretary; and Ruth Hulise, treasurer.

Jo Ann Brink provided the musical prelude for the initiation of new members which was conducted by Ruth Hulise, chairman, Mrs. Charles Curlett, and Mrs. Roloff Wolford. This service included reviews of club policies and procedures and the presentation of certificates of membership, constitution and by-laws, and a red rose to Ona Margaret Hurtt, Miriam Weaver, Martha Blue, Barbara Hille, Paulene Mower and Mrs. Maxine Radcliffe.

Dear Abby: Godiva Act Necessary?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have created quite a stir in the town of Casper, Wyoming, where I live.

In protest to the ridiculous styles we women are being forced to wear, I have volunteered to ride a horse down the main street of Casper, wearing only a ribbon in my hair. My friends say I should. What do you say, Abby?

MODERN LADY GODIVA
DEAR GODIVA: If it's attention you want to attract, I advise against it. Everybody in Casper has seen a horse.

DEAR ABBY: The man who has asked me to marry him displays an almost unnatural interest in other women. I have never been the jealous type, and I can certainly understand his finding other women attractive, but he is so obvious it's embarrassing. When we are in a public place, such as a restaurant, he looks around and finds the best-looking woman in the room and he then concentrates on her. I would notice his eyes going in her direction constantly. When we are in his car, and must stop for a red light, he leans forward so he can see who is in the car to the right. If it's a woman, he just stares at her. He's sweet and wonderful and gives me all his attention when we are alone or in a dark room. This might seem like a petty complaint, but I don't think I could overlook it after we are married.

NO NAME
DEAR NO NAME: Life cannot be lived in a "dark room." Go with him longer and get to know him better. And if he can't lose this objectionable characteristic, lose HIM. It would be just a matter of time before you'd be telling it to the judge.

DEAR ABBY: I am to be married soon. My future husband is in the Air Force, which means we can expect to be traveling a lot. We want to get a furnished apartment at first. Our problem is that we are afraid we are going to get a lot of presents that we will not be able to use for a long time. I was wondering if there is any way to tell our friends and relatives that we would rather have money than presents. It would be inconvenient to pile them all in the car when we leave, as we have so much baggage as it is. We probably won't be able to use half the presents and won't have any place to put them in a furnished apartment anyway. Have you a solution for our problem?

MONEY TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: If you are asked if you prefer cash to a gift, then it is entirely proper to state your preference. But it's in extremely poor taste to volunteer the suggestion. Do what other brides in your boat do. Store your presents at your mother's, or his.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JACK:
Forget it. Behind every successful man are ten people who say they went to school with him.

6th Birthday Is Observed

David A. Rittinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Rittinger, Route 1, was honored on his sixth birthday recently with a party given by his mother.

Opening gifts highlighted the afternoon party. Games were played and prizes were won by Karen Gifford, Ann Congrove, Keith Dumm, Cindy Gifford, Tommy Congrove, Brent Gifford and Jeanie Wright.

Refreshments were served. Others attending included William Rittinger, Lane Beougher, Steve Gifford, Krista Gifford, Terry Wright, Daryl Rittinger and Carol Rittinger.

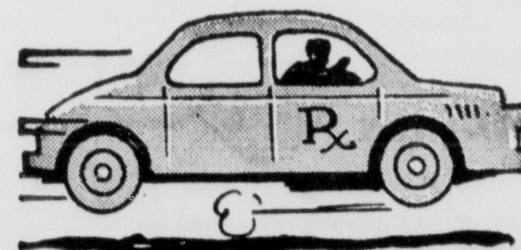

Also present were Mrs. Roy Rittinger, Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger, Mrs. Charles Rittinger, Mrs. David Dumm and Mrs. Gene Wright.

Lamp Shades Are Brighter After Cleaning

By ELEANOR ROSS

No matter how handsome a lamp may be, how glowingly beautiful the shade, both must be kept in fine condition to do their job.

So, during your routine once-a-week house-cleaning, use a soft cloth to wipe off the bulb, reflector bowl (if there is one), and lamp base. Use the soft brush attachment of your vacuum cleaner on the shade.

It is most important to keep the bulb and reflector clean, if you wish to receive the maximum light, since a film of dust or dirt can cut light output by as much as 50 per cent.

Once a month, or oftener, if needed, remove the reflector from the lamp, wash in warm, soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly, and then replace it. Never wash light bulbs; the water may loosen the cement holding the base to the glass.

Lamp bases can be cleaned by using a mild warm water soap solution on glass, pottery, marble and onyx surfaces, then wipe dry. Wood and metal should be dusted and protected with a thin coat of wax.

Never use polishes or abrasives on metal surfaces. These surfaces are usually protected with transparent lacquer which polishes will remove. Once this happens, the metal is exposed to the tarnishing effects of air.

Lampshades, with the exception of paper and parchment, can often be cleaned if the correct procedure is followed.

Fabric, such as linen, cotton, chintz, painted silk, or applique shades should be dry-cleaned only. So should any fabric shade whose trim is glued on instead of stitched. Rayon and silk shades can be washed if the trimmings are stitched. First, dust the shade, then slosh it up and down in a tube of lukewarm water, changing the water as often as necessary. Blot as dry as possible with terry towels. Then place in a stiff breeze, preferably from an electric fan. Never place the lamp shade in sunlight or on a radiator.

Dusting with a dry cloth is the first step to clean a leather shade. Then apply a small amount of petroleum jelly once a month, using a soft cloth.

Plastic shades should first be dusted, then wiped with a damp, soapy cloth, followed by a cloth dampened in clear water. Then wiped entirely dry.

To brighten metallic paper shades, apply a mixture of one part turpentine to 10 parts mineral oil with a soft cloth. Wipe dry.

Fiberglass shades should be dipped in lukewarm suds, then in clear water. Use a soft cloth to apply the suds, then a fresh one to rinse and wipe dry.

Wipe metal shades with a damp cloth, then quickly wipe dry; and, to repeat our earlier warning, never use furniture polish on a metal shade.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Leo Roman, 80, a plumber for 56 years, has a good memory, not to mention good records.

In 1922, he deposited $25 with the St. Louis County treasurer to guarantee that any excavations he made would be properly filled and that damage to alleys or streets would be repaired.

Now planning to retire, Roman presented his receipt for the deposit and asked for return of the money.

The treasurer's office was checked and the money was still on deposit. It is to be returned.

Attractive Panels Make Room Dividers

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If you have to divide to conquer the problems of inner space, consider doing the job with poles and panels.

The one we have in mind are teamed to create room dividers that are as decoratively appealing as they are easy to assemble or to take apart.

The poles — they're so elegant that they're properly called "columns" — make for instant installation.

Each has a spring tension unit that permits it to adjust in height from 7 feet, 10 inches to 8 feet, 6 inches.

If your ceiling's higher than that, extension sections are available.

Once anchored firmly against floor and ceiling, the spring unit keeps the column steadfast.

The columns themselves — there's one topped with a Corinthian capital, another with a fluted design, a third of modern Danish design — are almost as elegant as the panels you can fit between them to make your divider.

Made of high impact styrene, the panels, which are almost 2 feet square, come in a magnificent choice of designs.

One, in antique black or in verdigris jade, looks like a fortune in fabulous Spanish wrought iron.

Another is patterned with a lacy design of philodendron leaves in white or in white-gold finish.

A geometric design of circles and squares that's airy and has contemporary charm comes in gold or white gold.

The open-work panels are strikingly attractive, but if you want to block off a view entirely, a solid panel with a sculptured modern motif is also available. It's impressive, for it has the massive, textured look of stone in a natural sandstone finish. It's also available in gold.

Another way to divide decoratively is to mount shelves on the columns. These come with brackets designed to fit channels built into each of the columns.

The shelves can be had with a laminated plastic marble finish or in genuine walnut veneer.

Dear Abby: Godiva Act Necessary?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have created quite a stir in the town of Casper, Wyoming, where I live.

In protest to the ridiculous styles we women are being forced to wear, I have volunteered to ride a horse down the main street of Casper, wearing only a ribbon in my hair. My friends say I should. What do you say, Abby?

MODERN LADY GODIVA
DEAR GODIVA: If it's attention you want to attract, I advise against it. Everybody in Casper has seen a horse.

DEAR ABBY: The man who has asked me to marry him displays an almost unnatural interest in other women. I have never been the jealous type, and I can certainly understand his finding other women attractive, but he is so obvious it's embarrassing. When we are in a public place, such as a restaurant, he looks around and finds the best-looking woman in the room and he then concentrates on her. I would notice his eyes going in her direction constantly. When we are in his car, and must stop for a red light, he leans forward so he can see who is in the car to the right. If it's a woman, he just stares at her. He's sweet and wonderful and gives me all his attention when we are alone or in a dark room. This might seem like a petty complaint, but I don't think I could overlook it after we are married.

NO NAME
DEAR NO NAME: Life cannot be lived in a "dark room." Go with him longer and get to know him better. And if he can't lose this objectionable characteristic, lose HIM. It would be just a matter of time before you'd be telling it to the judge.

DEAR ABBY: I am to be married soon. My future husband is in the Air Force, which means we can expect to be traveling a lot. We want to get a furnished apartment at first. Our problem is that we are afraid we are going to get a lot of presents that we will not be able to use for a long time. I was wondering if there is any way to tell our friends and relatives that we would rather have money than presents. It would be inconvenient to pile them all in the car when we leave, as we have so much baggage as it is. We probably won't be able to use half the presents and won't have any place to put them in a furnished apartment anyway. Have you a solution for our problem?

MONEY TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: If you are asked if you prefer cash to a gift, then it is entirely proper to state your preference. But it's in extremely poor taste to volunteer the suggestion. Do what other brides in your boat do. Store your presents at your mother's, or his.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JACK: Forget it. Behind every successful man are ten people who say they went to school with him.

6th Birthday Is Observed

David A. Rittinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Rittinger, Route 1, was honored on his sixth birthday recently with a party given by his mother.

Opening gifts highlighted the afternoon party. Games were played and prizes were won by Karen Gifford, Ann Congrove, Keith Dumm, Cindy Gifford, Tommy Congrove, Brent Gifford and Jeanie Wright.

Refreshments were served. Others attending included William Rittinger, Lane Beougher, Steve Gifford, Krista Gifford, Terry Wright, Daryl Rittinger and Carol Rittinger.

Also present were Mrs. Roy Rittinger, Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger, Mrs. Charles Rittinger, Mrs. David Dumm and Mrs. Gene Wright.

BK Chapter Members Hold Hawaiian Luau

Members of Sigma Phi Gamma International Sorority, Beta Kappa Chapter, met recently for a Hawaiian Luau party in the home of Mrs. Jerry Pritchard, 1135 McGraw Road.

Guests were appropriately dressed for the occasion and Mrs. Harold Strawser, who wore a grass skirt, won a prize for the most unique costume. Each guest received a lei and vanda orchid for her hair.

Tiki torches illuminated the entrance of the patio and various colored patio candles provided the lighting. A long table spread lengthwise on the floor was decorated with ti leaves, vanda orchids and matching accessories, centered with a wooden tray of fresh fruit.

A fruit and dessert course was served from wooden bowls and coconut shells. Colorful pillows provided the seating.

Prize winners in the games that were conducted included, Mrs. John Strawser, Mrs. Bill Neal, Miss Margaret Good, Mrs. Pritchard and Mrs. Blenn Stevenson.

Guests present were Miss Agnes Jester, Mrs. Harold Strawser, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Neal, Mrs. John Strawser and Mrs. Thomas Dewey.

Solaqua GC Meeting Scheduled Friday

The Solaqua Garden Club will meet 1:30 p. m. Friday at the Prairie Lanes Recreation Center, N. Court St.

Mrs. Alfred Cook, Mrs. Ben Vause and Mrs. Walter Cummins will be hostesses.

Circleville Garden Meet Set Thursday

There will be election of officers and charter members will be recognized. Handy Hatfield will present "The Hemerocallis Story".

Lamp Shades Are Brighter After Cleaning

By ELEANOR ROSS

No matter how handsome a lamp may be, how glowingly beautiful the shade, both must be kept in fine condition to do their job.

So, during your routine once-a-week house-cleaning, use a soft cloth to wipe off the bulb, reflector bowl (if there is one), and lamp base. Use the soft brush attachment of your vacuum cleaner on the shade.

It is most important to keep the bulb and reflector clean, if you wish to receive the maximum light, since a film of dust or dirt can cut light output by as much as 50 per cent.

Once a month, or oftener, if needed, remove the reflector from the lamp, wash in warm, soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly, and then replace it.

Never wash light bulbs; the water may loosen the cement holding the base to the glass.

Lamp bases can be cleaned by using a mild warm water soap solution on glass, pottery, marble and onyx surfaces, then wipe dry. Wood and metal should be dusted and protected with a thin coat of wax.

Never use polishes or abrasives on metal surfaces. These surfaces are usually protected with transparent lacquer which polishes will remove. Once this happens, the metal is exposed to the tarnishing effects of air.

Lampshades, with the exception of paper and parchment, can often be cleaned if the correct procedure is followed.

Fabric, such as linen, cotton, chintz, painted silk, or applique shades should be dry-cleaned only. So should any fabric shade whose trim is glued on instead of stitched.

Rayon and silk shades can be washed if the trimmings are stitched. First, dust the shade, then slosh it up and down in a tube of lukewarm water, changing the water as often as necessary. Blot as dry as possible with terry towels. Then place in a stiff breeze, preferably from an electric fan. Never place the lamp shade in sunlight or on a radiator.

Dusting with a dry cloth is the first step to clean a leather shade. Then apply a small amount of petroleum jelly once a month, using a soft cloth.

Plastic shades should first be dusted, then wiped with a damp, soapy cloth, followed by a cloth dampened in clear water. Then wiped entirely dry.

To brighten metallic paper shades, apply a mixture of one part turpentine to 10 parts mineral oil with a soft cloth. Wipe dry.

Fiberglass shades should be dipped in lukewarm suds, then in clear water. Use a soft cloth to apply the suds, then a fresh one to rinse and wipe dry.

Wipe metal shades with a damp cloth, then quickly wipe dry; and, to repeat our earlier warning, never use furniture polish on a metal shade.

Did you know that you can put unbaked pecan pie (filling and shell) in the freezer? When you want to use the pie, you can bake it in a moderate oven — an 8-inch pie will need about an hour.

Is Consumer Getting Full Tax Benefit?

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Consumers got a break when President Johnson signed the excise tax cut bill, but the question today is whether they will get all they are entitled to.

When Johnson signed the $4. billion piece of legislation, he appealed to manufacturers and retailers to pass along the cut in lower prices.

An Associated Press survey of merchants in major cities indicated that most of them had changed price tags and were giving buyers the benefits resulting from elimination of taxes which had been charged at the retail level.

However, David L. Yunich, president of Macy's New York Division of R. H. Macy & Co., department store chain, said, "Some manufacturers are resisting by contemplating raising their base prices."

"The enactment of this bill reflects the confidence of the administration and the Congress that the benefits of excise tax reductions will be passed along to the American consumer," Johnson said. "We can expect no less from our competent business system." He added that the tax reduction "will pay big dividends in lower prices, in more jobs and more sales and in more production, not just this year but in 1966 and in many years to come."

Consumers began receiving the first benefits from $1.75 billion of the cuts which went into effect immediately. Another $1.75 billion will go into effect Jan. 1, 1966, and the remaining $1.2 billion will be stretched out until Jan. 1, 1969.

The 10 per cent tax on air conditioners was repealed retroactive to May 15, as was the first stage cut in the new car levy from 10 per cent to 7 per cent.

General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Co. began sending fund application forms to 830,000 purchasers of new cars since May 15.

Tax cuts effective at once include the 10 per cent levies on luggage, handbags, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, television sets, household appliances, cameras, musical instruments, phonographs, business machines, pens, pencils and phonograph records.

Many merchants expected a buying spurt to develop. They said there had been considerable withholding of purchases in anticipation of removal of the tax.

The end of the first half of 1965 neared with much debate heard about the state of the economy and the outlook. Business in the second quarter held up well in comparison with the record first quarter but some sources contended there would be a slackening in the second half.

Junto Club For Mutual Improvement

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ben Franklin was always starting things destined to continue far beyond his own lifetime—things like the free library, the University of Pennsylvania, bifocal eyeglasses, the lightning rod and the Junto.

Founded in 1727, Franklin's Junto was a "club for mutual improvement" composed of bright young men. It's modern day descendant was organized in 1941. But the basic idea remains the same: the continuation of education for adults.

Franklin's club was exclusive. The new Junto's students range from unemployed high school graduates seeking new skills to college graduates who just can't stop learning.

One of its most important functions is bridging the "parent gap"—between what a parent learned in school and the advanced new subjects his space-age child takes.

The club Franklin called the Junto—a name derived from the Spanish "Junta", meaning group—lasted 40 years and became the nucleus for the American Philosophical Society.

Civic-minded Philadelphians interested in adult education borrowed the name when they founded the new Junto as a public, non-profit endeavor.

One of the most popular courses in the "lunch 'n' learn" program. Members of this course bring their own sandwiches to supplement Junto coffee and doughnuts. The idea was to provide a course which working people in the downtown area could attend on their lunch hour.

The Junto's popularity is a measure of its success. It now teaches some 1,500 students per semester, and more than 250,000 persons have taken Junto courses since its establishment in 1941.

Junto Club For Mutual Improvement

By STAN BENJAMIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ben Franklin was always starting things destined to continue far beyond his own lifetime—things like the free library, the University of Pennsylvania, bifocal eyeglasses, the lightning rod and the Junto.

Founded in 1727, Franklin's Junto was a "club for mutual improvement" composed of bright young men. Its modern descendant was organized in 1941. But the basic idea remains the same: the continuation of education for adults.

Franklin's club was exclusive. The new Junto's students range from unemployed high school graduates seeking new skills to college graduates who just can't stop learning.

One of its most important functions is bridging the "parent gap"—between what a parent learned in school and the advanced new subjects his space-age child takes.

The club Franklin called the Junto—a name derived from the Spanish "Junta", meaning group—lasted 40 years and became the nucleus for the American Philosophical Society.

Civic-minded Philadelphians interested in adult education borrowed the name when they founded the new Junto as a public, non-profit endeavor.

One of the most popular courses in the "lunch 'n' learn" program. Members of this course bring their own sandwiches to supplement Junto coffee and doughnuts. The idea was to provide a course which working people in the downtown area could attend on their lunch hour.

The Junto's popularity is a measure of its success. It now teaches some 1,500 students per semester, and more than 250,000 persons have taken Junto courses since its establishment in 1941.

News of World in Brief

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP) — The Social Democrats gained on Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats in the final ballot test before the Sept. 19 nationwide election.

The Christian Democrats won the Saarland State election Sunday, getting 42.7 per cent of the 594,893 votes cast. This represented a gain of from 19 to 23 seats in the 50-member legislature.

ROME (AP) — Renato Castellani, a movie producer and director, and eight theater managers each have been given suspended two-month jail terms on a charge of making and showing an obscene film.

LONDON (AP) — The South African defense secretary, J. P. de Villiers, was reported "fairly satisfactory" today after a mild heart attack aboard a plane.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze says a federal program has produced summer jobs for 38,500 college students from low-income families.

The work-study program is authorized by the Economic Opportunity Act. About $19.1 million has been provided to 730 colleges and universities to handle the program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says competition between the Soviet Union and Red China has stimulated Communist activities throughout Africa.

The Massachusetts Democrat, chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on refugees and escapees, said the two Communist countries are primarily competing for the loyalty of African students and exile leaders.

The Kennedy report came after closed session testimony by G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, and Abba P. Schwartz, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman has called again for the resignation of William McChesney Martin as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The Texas Democrat, chairman of the House Banking Committee, has blamed Martin for a recent stock market slump. It came after Martin said there are similarities between 1965 economic conditions and those which prevailed before the 1929 crash. He also said there are dissimilarities.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has paid a return visit to Cooley Dickinson Hospital where he spent three weeks last year after suffering a broken back in a plane crash June 19.

This time the senator presented a scholarship fund Sunday to the school of nursing. It was announced that the fund is a memorial to Edward S. Moss, a Kennedy aide from Andover who was killed in the crash.

EASTON, Conn. (AP) — Helen Keller has celebrated her 85th birthday with a cake, a champagne toast and a close group of relatives and friends.

The celebration Sunday was a quiet one for the blind and deaf author who has devoted most of her lifetime to helping the handicapped.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Bing Crosby crooned a few bars of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" as he led Meadow Court into the Irish Derby winner's circle at the Curragh Race Track.

He had reason to sing. Within hours after Crosby bought a one-third share in the horse, Meadow Court earned him $52,940 as his share of the $155,820 first prize money in Saturday's race.

Crosby bought the share from Canadian millionaire Max Bell. He wouldn't say what it cost him, but commented after the race, "I've got my money back now and more."

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Johnson's younger daughter, Luci, arrived in New Orleans Sunday and rode from the airport to her hotel with a young man she described as "a good friend."

His name was not disclosed. Miss Johnson will be in New Orleans until Tuesday for the convention of the American Optometric Association. She works part time in a Washington optometrists' office.

Festival, Tourist Business To Enliven Newport Tempo

By SANDO BOLOGNA
Central Press Association
Correspondent

NEWPORT, R. I. — This "City by the Sea," formerly a millionaires' playground and now an important Navy base, is concentrating on jazz, restoration and tourist business for its future economic stability.

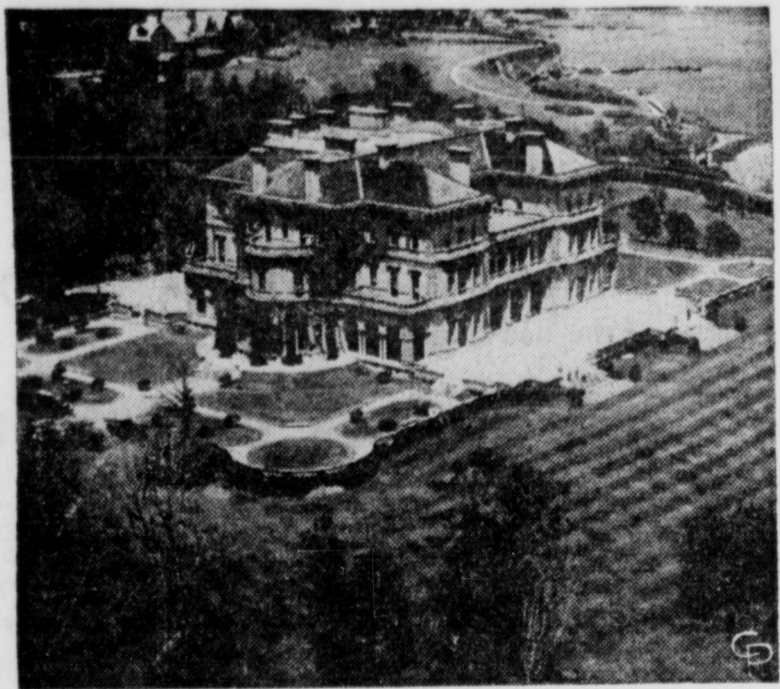

There is an unprecedented hustle and bustle to accommodate the thousands of visitors who flock to Newport every summer.

The 12th annual Newport Jazz Festival will swing out from July 1 to 4 at the new site, Festival Field, less than one mile from the city's center.

Some of the nation's best known jazz exponents will participate in four evening concerts and three afternoon programs, expected to be attended by jazz buffs from many states. Last summer's jazz festival attracted 138,000 people.

The Newport Preservation Society, operating on a $250,000 annual budget, clocked nearly 120,000 visitors last year at the Breakers and four other show-place mansions. This number is nearly double the 62,000 who toured the society's buildings in 1958 before the Elms and the Marble House were opened to the public.

Efforts are being intensified for funds for the reconstruction of the famed Cliff Walk where visitors enjoy superb views of the Atlantic Ocean and of the palatial marble homes built by the "Four Hundred"—the cream of U. S. "society"—as copies of European palaces. Some of the buildings are now hotels; others are museums.

The Breakers—70-room mansion built by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Redevelopment plans for the 21-acre Long Wharf-Market Square section of Newport's waterfront include new stores, shopping malls, waterside promenades, a 110-unit motor inn and street relocations. The "face-lifting" project will cost an estimated $3 million.

An $8 million marina, hotel and apartment development is being considered by investors on Goat Island, formerly the site of a naval torpedo station. Nearly 100 buildings are being torn down on the 8-acre island.

Founded in 1639, Newport still retains the charm of its seaport days in several downtown buildings. The Georgian-styled Tuoro Synagogue, the nation's oldest synagogue in continuous use, represents a symbol of American religious freedom.

There are also the Newport Friends Meeting House, and the Old Colony House (built in 1739, where Rhode Island's governors were inaugurated for nearly 150 years.

The most pretentious show-place in Newport is still the Breakers, a palatial building of 70 lavish rooms and 30 baths commanding the Cliff Walk. It was built by Cornelius Vanderbilt in 1895 at an estimated cost of $7 million.

Belcourt, constructed in 1893 as the estate of the late O.H.P. Belmont, has a dining room that is a copy of the famous Hall of Mirrors at Versailles, France.

Tours also are made of Winton-Lyman - Hazard House, and the Nicholas-Wanton-Hunter House, all in Newport, and The Whitehall in nearby Middletown.

Another favorite "must" on tourist itineraries is the Ten-Mile Ocean Drive which begins at Wellington and Thames Streets, follows the rock-bound coast, passes beautiful estates, golf courses and Viking Beach, patronized by U.S. Navy personnel of the Newport Naval Station and the Naval War College.

tail administration efforts to achieve negotiations.

Speaking on the program with Dirksen, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford said:

"The United States could not agree today — any more than in 1956 — to legitimizing Communist control of all of Viet Nam by the device of a Communist-style election.

"The Eisenhower administration labored to build out of the chaos in South Viet Nam a durable economy, a progressive social order and military strength. That it achieved a considerable measure of success was attested to by several of Senator Fulbright's colleagues."

In weekend developments revolving around the Viet Nam war:

— Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said if a vote were taken in the United Nations now it would conclude that U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam "was a mistake."

Speaking on NBC's radio and television program "Meet the Press," Stevenson said, however, that he didn't believe the U.N. members would condemn the United States for its Viet Nam actions.

The ambassador also said the United States would not object to Communist Viet Cong representatives at any Viet Nam peace talks.

— Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri suggested that the United States pause again in Nam actions.

The bombings of the Communist North were halted from May 12 to 18 after Shastri had proposed such action as a way to encourage negotiations.

"The first pause almost went unnoticed," Shastri said on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation."

"There was no prior announcement. It was a short pause and I do not think it could produce the desired results," Shastri said.

— The United States declared that Red terrorist acts and threats in South Viet Nam will only strengthen American determination to help prevent a Communist takeover.

"These Communist threats to intimidate our course will not succeed," the State Department said in a statement.

The statement was issued following the Communist execution of an American soldier, a Saigon restaurant bombing which killed 44 persons and a threat to kill U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and other leaders.

In Texas, where President Johnson spent the weekend, press secretary George E. Reedy had no comment on the reports that Taylor was marked for death by the Viet Cong.

— U.S. sources said the Communists apparently have stepped up efforts to destroy the economy of South Viet Nam.

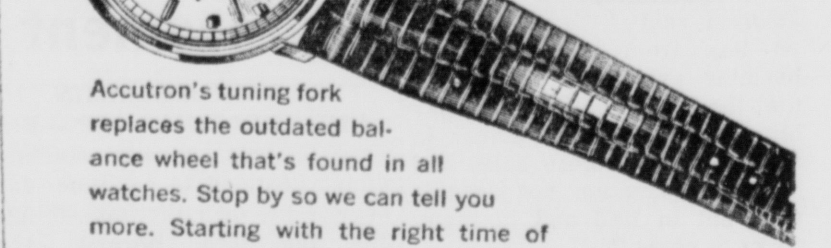

Through disruption of transportation and the seizure or destruction of crops, the sources said, the Viet Cong have sent South Viet Nam rice exports down from $36 million in 1963 to $5 million last year and nothing this year. In addition, they said rubber exports have dropped sharply this year after being pegged at $33 million in both 1963 and 1964.

— Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., a former history professor, endorsed open academic discussion of U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Appearing on "Youth Wants to Know," a non-network taped television program, he was asked to assess academic attacks on Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

He said: "I think we ought to encourage academic discussion on these points. I don't think it ought to be put down. I think it ought to be encouraged. It's my impression from having participated in many teach-ins that there is overwhelming support on the campus — I'd say three to one, four to one — for the strong stand in Viet Nam."

termination to help prevent a Communist takeover.

"These Communist threats to intimidate our course will not succeed," the State Department said in a statement.

The statement was issued following the Communist execution of an American soldier, a Saigon restaurant bombing which killed 44 persons and a threat to kill U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and other leaders.

In Texas, where President Johnson spent the weekend, press secretary George E. Reedy had no comment on the reports that Taylor was marked for death by the Viet Cong.

— U.S. sources said the Communists apparently have stepped up efforts to destroy the economy of South Viet Nam.

Through disruption of transportation and the seizure or destruction of crops, the sources said, the Viet Cong have sent South Viet Nam rice exports down from $36 million in 1963 to $5 million last year and nothing this year. In addition, they said rubber exports have dropped sharply this year after being pegged at $33 million in both 1963 and 1964.

— Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., a former history professor, endorsed open academic discussion of U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Appearing on "Youth Wants to Know," a non-network taped television program, he was asked to assess academic attacks on Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

He said: "I think we ought to encourage academic discussion on these points. I don't think it ought to be put down. I think it ought to be encouraged. It's my impression from having participated in many teach-ins that there is overwhelming support on the campus — I'd say three to one, four to one — for the strong stand in Viet Nam."

Festival, Tourist Business To Enliven Newport Tempo

By SANDO BOLOGNA
Central Press Association

NEWPORT, R. I. — This "City by the Sea," formerly a millionaires' playground and now an important Navy base, is concentrating on jazz, restoration and tourist business for its future economic stability.

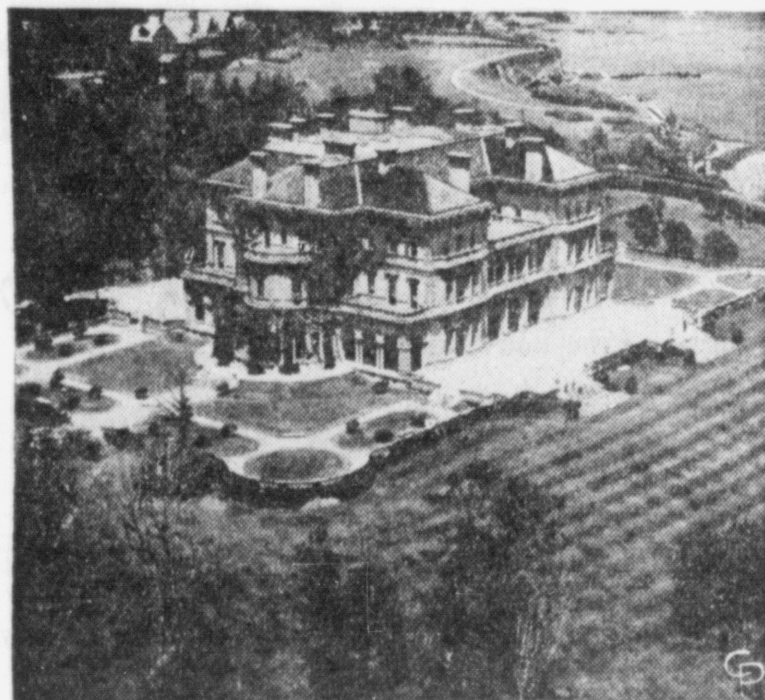

There is an unprecedented hustle and bustle to accommodate the thousands of visitors who flock to Newport every summer.

The 12th annual Newport Jazz Festival will swing out from July 1 to 4 at the new site, Festival Field, less than one mile from the city's center.

Some of the nation's best known jazz exponents will participate in four evening concerts and three afternoon programs, expected to be attended by jazz buffs from many states. Last summer's jazz festival attracted 138,000 people.

The Newport Preservation Society, operating on a $250,000 annual budget, clocked nearly 120,000 visitors last year at the Breakers and four other show-place mansions. This number is nearly double the 62,000 who toured the society's buildings in 1958 before the Elms and the Marble House were opened to the public.

Efforts are being intensified for funds for the reconstruction of the famed Cliff Walk where visitors enjoy superb views of the Atlantic Ocean and of the palatial marble homes built by the "Four Hundred"—the cream of U. S. "society" — as copies of European palaces. Some of the buildings are now hotels; others are museums.

The Breakers—70-room mansion built by Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Redevelopment plans for the 21-acre Long Wharf-Market Square section of Newport's waterfront include new stores, shopping malls, waterside promenades, a 110-unit motor inn and street relocations. The "face-lifting" project will cost an estimated $3 million.

An $8 million marina, hotel and apartment development is being considered by investors on Goat Island, formerly the site of a naval torpedo station. Nearly 100 buildings are being torn down on the 8-acre island.

Founded in 1639, Newport still retains the charm of its seaport days in several downtown buildings. The Georgian-styled Tuoro Synagogue, the nation's oldest synagogue in continuous use, represents a symbol of American religious freedom.

There are also the Newport Friends Meeting House, and the Old Colony House (built in 1739, where Rhode Island's governors were inaugurated for nearly 150 years.

The most pretentious show-place in Newport is still the Breakers, a palatial building of 70 lavish rooms and 30 baths commanding the Cliff Walk. It was built by Cornelius Vanderbilt in 1895 at an estimated cost of $7 million.

Belcourt, constructed in 1893 as the estate of the late O.H.P. Belmont, has a dining room that is a copy of the famous Hall of Mirrors at Versailles, France.

Tours also are made of Wanton-Lyman - Hazard House, and the Nicholas-Wanton-Hunter House, all in Newport, and The Whitehall in nearby Middletown.

Another favorite "must" on tourist itineraries is the Ten-Mile Ocean Drive which begins at Wellington and Thames Streets, follows the rock-bound coast, passes beautiful estates, golf courses and Viking Beach, patronized by U.S. Navy personnel of the Newport Naval Station and the Naval War College.

Budget Battle Takes Spotlight In Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State senators squared off for the battle of the budget today with time running out on the state's spending authority.

They scheduled a vote on the whopping $1.5 billion general appropriations bill at an unusual Monday afternoon session, hoping to speed it along to Gov. James A. Rhodes before Wednesday midnight.

Finance Director Richard L. Krabach served notice earlier that unless the measure is enacted before that fiscal deadline, there will be delays in state payrolls and other obligations.

Affected initially would be more than 10,000 aid to the aged checks scheduled to go out Thursday. Salaries of the lawmakers themselves are due to be paid Tuesday. They also could be held up.

Republicans and Democrats in the evenly divided Senate have pledged action to prevent delayed payments but have not spelled out what form the action will take.

There appears to be strong support for an amendment by Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-Summit, to approve funds for state "housekeeping" bills and leave major disagreement areas of welfare and education for consideration in supplementary measures.

He drafted the amendment before departing last week for Europe as a delegate to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference. His absence gives Republicans a 15-15 edge, enough to defeat an expected long list of amendments by Democrats.

The Senate Rules Committee also scheduled a vote today on an administration-backed bill to extend school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils. There was speculation however, that marathon deliberations on the budget may cause postponement of other business.

Attention in the House focused on the Sunday liquor bill as lawmakers returned from weekend recess to start their 24th work week. Supporters said they expected action by the Liquor Committee on the controversial measure which would permit Sunday sale of liquor after 1 p.m. under local option in counties of 200,000 or more population.

Opinions of the 13 committee members were reported so evenly divided that a single vote might kill the measure or send it to a floor vote. Senators passed it previously 17-15.

House leaders called up for a vote tonight a controversial bill to boost from 44 to 50 the number of horse racing days granted each Ohio track. Backers say the added days would bring in an estimated $1.5 million a year in state revenue.

Also on the House calendar was the highly publicized bill to make tomato juice Ohio's official beverage. The Senate-passed measure was introduced in jest by Sen. Charles J. Carney, D-Mahoning, at the height of the governor's campaign to boost Ohio as the No. 1 tomato state.

Rhodes reacted by giving the proposal his serious endorsement.

Cleveland's Orchestra Gets Red Carpet Welcome

CLEVELAND (AP) — Some members of the Cleveland Orchestra expressed surprise at the warmth of the welcome they received when they came home from their 10½-week tour of Russia and Western Europe.

The orchestra, given rave notices throughout the tour, found more than 5,000 people waiting to greet them Saturday night at Cleveland Hopkins Airport. There was a red carpet, a 25-piece band playing festive music and youngsters waving "welcome home" signs.

It was the kind of a welcome a championship football team might get.

The consensus among members of the orchestra was that the tour was highly successful and that the State Department, which sponsored the trip, had not wasted its money.

Olin Trogon, who plays double bass and also acts as personnel manager, said if he had to "pick out one highlight, it would have to be the response we received in Russia."

"In some places," he added, "they almost broke the door down to hear us."

"Tremendous" and "very much a success" were some of the words used by others of the 107-member organization to describe the response.

Elmer Setzer, violinist, said the audiences "wouldn't let us stop. It is not like Cleveland," he added, referring to the inconsistent demand for encores at every stop on the tour.

Father Now Dresses Like His Offspring

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

High School boys are influencing the clothes worn by their fathers. The whole pattern of emulation observed since puritan days is being reversed.

More than 50 per cent of one large firm's business, formerly conservative, is in high fashion men's clothes. Suits have squared, lifted shoulders, shaped with slight indentation at the waist, unpleated pants and such innovations as iridescent fabrics, says Michael Daroff, president of probably the largest manufacturer of brand label clothes in the world.

The firm is said to have made its name and fortune a half-century ago advertising a one-style suit model that would please any man whether he wanted it for a funeral or a wedding.

"It's the first time in history that boys have broken out of the mold of conformity, and in so doing have eased the path for their fathers. Older men are no longer afraid to express interest in how they look," says Daroff. He feels "the acceleration in the men's market is due entirely to the young people who are spending the bulk of their money on clothes."

At the junior and senior high school level when the desire for individuality is at its peak, they dress for fun and to express their personality. When they reach college age, they will adopt their campus' fashion of the moment, he points out.

Far from being aghast at the changing fashion picture, manufacturers welcome it. In England young men are spending two-thirds of their salary on clothes. Men'swear shops are opening everywhere.

The whole argument about feminization in men's clothes, just because they've changed from a static pattern, is ridiculous, says this manufacturer. There are extremists in everything. But students are showing incredibly good taste. They'll pay $35 for a good sweater and anything they can afford for the just-right kind of slacks.

This willingness to spend time and money seeking out clothes has had enormous effect on the men's market, even though it is mainly a sportswear marked for teens.

New fashion developments for youths include French cuffs to accommodate jeweled cufflinks, fancy shirts and shoes with high heels. Whether or not adult men will adopt the 1½ inch high beate boot now worn by many young men is a moot question. But, as one expert points out:

"What would be wrong with high heels for men? The most rugged men in the world have worn cowboy boots for generations."

Portable Dams

NEW YORK (AP)—A device dating from the Middle Ages and modernized with steel is being used by conservationists and trout anglers to conserve fish life in drought stricken areas of the country.

Steel Facts, publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said the devices are gabions — wire mesh "cages" — which can be scientifically placed in stream beds and filled with on-site rocks to form dam-like structures. Drying streams are thus deepened so that fish can move and spawn better.

The gabions keep relatively small rocks together without mortar or cement, are easily carried into wild areas for assembling; require no heavy earthmoving equipment and can be filled with almost any available rocks.

They're transforming common sewage into precious water.

Ohio Spending May Be Cut Off On Wednesday

By REED SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than $6.5 million pours into the state treasury daily for highways and for general operations such as salaries, old age pensions, subsidies and house-keeping items.

But Ohio can't spend a penny after midnight next Wednesday, when the state's new two-year bookkeeping period starts, without authorization by the Legislature.

Authorization is carried in the $1.5 billion general operating budget and the $890 million appropriation for the Highway and Highway Safety Department.

That's what all the furor is about in the dragging legislative session where the two big money bills rest atop a Senate logjam.

Although Republicans dominate the House, they are equalled by Democrats, 16-16, in the Senate where 17 votes are needed to pass legislation.

Both appropriation bills cleared the House earlier than usual only to hit Senate snags.

Senate Democrats defeated one highway bill but later joined in passing another which now is back in the upper chamber for action on House changes.

The House-approved general appropriations measure is scheduled for a showdown vote in the Senate tonight. House action on Senate amendments to an approved bill then would be in order.

With time running short, Senate Democratic leader Frank W. King of Toledo and Sen. Charles J. Carney, D-Mahoning, got a flat "No" from Gov. James A. Rhodes and Senate Republican leader, Theodore M. Gray of Piqua on a request for a one-year budget.

The turndown came in the early morning hours Thursday at a close-door meeting with the governor and his top aides. It was the first session with Rhodes requested by King since the Legislature convened Jan. 4.

Rhodes told the Democratic leaders a one-year budget would have to be handled as a constitutional issue, which was out of his hands. King said he was committed to a one-year budget which would require a special session later to act on the second year appropriations.

Elaborate precautions were taken to keep the meeting secret. Senators used the governor's private elevator to reach his first floor office from the Statehouse basement. But participants gave this account of the gathering:

Several topics were touched upon generally during the amiable two-hour session, but only appropriations came in for specific discussion.

Finance Director Richard Krabach warned that he stood ready to order a complete halt to state spending on constitutional grounds in the absence of authorization by enactment of appropriations.

The constitution says that "no money shall be drawn from the treasury, except in the pursuance of a specific appropriation, made by law".

King asserted that more money was available for state operations than Krabach had estimated whereupon Rhodes, an advocate of "no new or increased taxes", said proponents of spending beyond estimates should sponsor tax legislation to pay for additional outlays.

King pointed out that Republicans had yet to decide on revision of school subsidies and on welfare reorganization.

He urged putting a floor under poor relief payments.

The governor said such spending authority would require a deficiency appropriation later and could pose a financial crisis in event of an unexpected recession.

His top assistant, John McElroy, said school and public assistance programs could be handled through supplemental appropriations if necessary because of failure to enact reorganization measures.

In that event, Krabach said present formulas would stand with an extra $35 million provided in the budget for pupils increases in the next two years. Another $60 million to boost teacher salaries, now incorporated in the proposed school foundation program, could be made available in a supplemental bill, he explained.

Administration rejection left Democrats the dilemma of approving appropriations and losing the bargaining power used hopefully until now or risking the political specter of blame for old age pension check delays, payless paydays for state employees, including legislators, and a halt in other spending.

Checks for the first 10,000 of the 75,000 old age pensioners to be paid monthly are ready for July mailing, Krabach said.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eighteen months after President John F. Kennedy's assassination Congress is ready to act, perhaps this week on what happens when a president dies or is disabled or there is no vice president.

This solution would be in the form of a constitutional amendment which must be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate and then by three-fourths of the state legislatures. Ratification isn't expected before 1967.

But in a related matter — a proposal to make it a federal crime to kill a president — Congress still hasn't decided. The House passed a bill to do this but not the Senate.

Yet, long ago Congress made it a federal offense to kill Secret Service men, who guard presidents, and to kill U.S. judges, district attorneys and their assistants, U.S. marshals, FBI agents, postal inspectors, prison guards, game wardens and narcotic agents.

Congress 48 years ago made it a federal crime to threaten the life of a president and, in the past decade, to threaten to harm a vice president, a president-elect, or other officers in line of succession to the presidency.

Four presidents have been assassinated but, just because Congress never made such a crime a federal one, Lee Harvey Oswald was taken into custody by Dallas police after he killed Kennedy.

Last Sept. 28 the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, after finishing its investigation of Kennedy's slaying, strongly recommended making presidential assassination a federal crime.

Congress, in a hurry to get home in the 1964 election year, quit five days later without taking action. It started all over this year.

On June 21 the House approved a bill making it a federal crime punishable by death to assassinate a president, vice president, or any person legally acting as president. This would also apply to the president-elect and vice president-elect between their election and inauguration.

The bill provides other penalties, up to life imprisonment, for kidnapping, assault or conspiracy involving the life or safety of the same officials and would permit the government to offer rewards up to $100,000 for information of such violations. But the Senate must act before this can become law.

Besides the four assassinated presidents, four others have died in office and 16 times the country has been left without a vice president. The most recent example was when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson succeeded Kennedy.

Fortunately, each time a president died there was a vice president to take his place and serve out his term although this left the vice presidency vacant. But seven other vice presidents died in office and one resigned.

Thus, the country repeatedly faced the question: "What happens when a president is disabled or when he dies and there is no vice president? Incredible as it may seem, Congress always has ducked tackling this until now in a constitutional amendment.

Briefly this is what it would do: when there is no vice president, the president nominates one but a majority of both houses must approve before he can take office.

When a president knows he is unable to do his job and so notifies Congress in writing, the vice president shall be acting president until the president, again in writing, tells Congress he can resume.

What happens if a president is too disabled to know it or won't admit it? When the vice president and a majority of the Cabinet, or some other body Congress designates later by law, notify Congress in writing that the president is unable to perform his duties, the vice president becomes acting president.

But what happens if then the president writes Congress that he can do his job? He simply resumes his job unless — within four days of his letter to Congress — the vice president and the Cabinet majority disagree and so notify Congress in writing.

Then Congress must meet within 48 hours to resolve the dispute. If, within 21 days two-thirds of both houses decide the president is unable to do his job, the vice president will continue as acting president. Otherwise, the president resumes his duties as chief executive.

Floyd Grabs Top Money In St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Raymond Floyd, a beefy young better who brims with confidence on a golf course, may be ready to join the likes of Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in the power brigade on the pro golf tour.

Floyd, playing his third year on the pro tour although only 22, slammed his way to the championship in the $100,000 St. Paul Open Sunday and picked up the biggest check of his career, $20,000.

He shot a final-round 69 on wind-blown Keller golf course to take the top prize with a 72-hole total of 270 — 14 under par and four strokes better than Tommy Aaron and Gene Littler.

A native of Fayetteville, N.C., where his father once owned a golf course, Floyd now plays out of St. Andrews, Ill.

Aaron slipped to a one-over-par 72 Sunday but still tied for second with Gene Littler, who came in with a 70 for a 274 total. They won $8,750.

Dean Refram was fourth at 275 to take $5,000. Deadlocked for fifth at 276 were Nicklaus and Bruce Devlin, while Palmer, Joe Campbell, Dick Sikes and Gardner Dickinson all had 277.

Randy Glover needed only 19 putts in shooting a 68 Sunday, tying the PGA tour record for fewest putts. But he was well back in the field for the tournament with a 284.

There are approximately 40 students participating in the Teays Valley summer recreational program.

According to Marion Waits, director, the bulk of program activity has centered around track and physical condition phases.

Lights for the basketball, tennis and horseshoe courts are expected to be installed soon. Waits anticipates a larger participation in these areas when the lights are completed.

The program is open to both adults and students in the Teays Valley School District. It is conducted Monday through Friday 6 to 9 p.m. at the high school.

A tennis tournament and adult and pre-high school basketball leagues are being planned.

Hall-Adkins Team Splits Twin Bill

The Hall-Adkins American Legion baseball team split a twin bill with visiting Sabina yesterday, losing the first game, 11-4, and winning the second, 3-2.

The local team, composed of teen-age boys from Pickaway County and Circleville, has a 3-5 record in the South Central Ohio Legion baseball league.

Sabina notched six runs in the top half of the seventh inning in the first game, as the Hall-Adkins nine committed three errors.

The winners cracked three singles in that frame and drew one walk.

The first man up for Sabina led off with a home run. In the second inning the visitors scored on a triple and a double and added another run in the third on a pair of errors.

The two runs in the sixth came on two doubles and a single.

Kenny Reese tallied the first run for the local legion team when he led off the second inning with a single and then scored on Dave Iery's triple. Iery moved across the plate on a wild pitch.

Four singles in the sixth inning accounted for the other two runs scored by the losers.

The second game went into an extra inning when the Hall-Adkins team tied the score in the seventh after scoring in the fourth. Both runs for Sabina came in the fourth inning when Jeff Lutz issued a pair of walks and was touched for a single.

The winning run came in the eighth when Dave Iery led off with a triple and then stole home.

IN WINNING, Lutz was touched for three hits, gave up three walks and fanned seven. In the first game, Rick Pickering was charged with the loss. He went on six hits.

Dave Iery finished the game, giving up six runs.

The local team travels to Bethel Sunday for a twin bill.

Hillsboro and Portsmouth are leading the SCO with 7-1 records. Washington, dropping both ends of a double header to Portsmouth yesterday is second with a 6-2 record.

Sabina is in third place with a 4-4 slate. Circleville is fourth at 3-5. Mt. Sterling and Bethel have 2-6 marks and Greenfield is last with a 1-7 record.

Four Teams Are Undeclared In Youth Baseball Program

The Circleville Youth Baseball Program is currently in its fourth week of play in the eight-week schedule and play-offs.

After three weeks of play only four teams post unblemished records. Circleville Oil and Stoutsville show four wins and no losses and IOOF holds three wins in three starts. All three teams are in the Little League Minors.

K of C in the Mosquito League, has won three in as many starts.

L. M. Butch leads the Babe Ruth League with a 5-1 slate. Kiwanis holds second, with four wins and two losses. Lindsey's has a 3-3 mark. With two wins and four losses are GE, Du Pont and Logan Elm.

VFW, Third National and the Savings Bank share the top spot in the Pony League with three wins and two losses. Kochheiser has one win and five losses.

The Herald and Bingmans are deadlocked in the LL Majors, posting 5-1 slates. Elks is in third at 3-3. American Legion and Coca-Cola are next with two wins and four defeats. Ralston Purina has one win and five losses.

Clark Is Easy Grand Prix Star

CLERMONT, FERRAND, France (AP) — Scotsman Jim Clark won the 51st Grand Prix of France Sunday with a driving style so relaxed he didn't even know he was knocking down lap records.

"After a few laps I felt right at home on the circuit," said Clark of the serpentine five-mile Auvergne course, carved out of the sides of ancient volcano cones. The Scot ace drove a Lotus.

Most of the 17 drivers never had raced through the circuit's 51 turns and long steep grades, being used the first time for Formula One cars. So tough was the going that Clark's winning time was a modest 2 hours, 14 minutes, 38.4 seconds for an average speed of 89 miles per hour.

Red-Hot Tribe Eyes Series With Bosox

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians open a six-game road trip against the Red Sox in Boston tonight after completing a home stand in which they won 13 of 15 games.

The red-hot Indians swept a doubleheader from the Kansas City Athletics Sunday, giving them 14 victories in their last 16 games.

Chuck Hinton's three-run homer in the 15th inning gave the Indians a 10-7 victory in Sunday's opener. The Indians won the second game, 11-7, after breaking a 7-7 deadlock with a four-run rally in the seventh.

Left-hander Jack Spring, acquired by the Indians recently from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, hurled the last five innings of the opener and won his first game, giving him a 1-1 record.

Sonny Siebert worked the last three innings of the nightcap and faced only 10 batters in posting his eighth victory in 11 decisions. He struck out six batters and walked one. He also hit a two-run single in the Indians' winning rally.

The Indians got 35 hits in the two games. They remained tied with Chicago for second place in the American League, one-half game behind Minnesota.

OSU-Bound Stars Sparkle in Tilt

MARION, Ohio (AP) — The Southern all-stars whipped the Northern 98-84 here Saturday night in the annual high school cage classic.

But Ohio State basketball Coach Fred Taylor won the jackpot.

Taylor was one of the interested spectators at the Coliseum and he watched with delight as three Buckeye-bound prep stars turned in impressive performances.

Steve Howell, Columbus East-moor's burly 6-foot-5 star, and All-Ohio Jeff Miller, Lima Shawnee's 6-5 ace, shared scoring honors with 21 points apiece.

Howell, who also contributed 15 rebounds to lead in that department, delivered key baskets as the Rebels evened the summer series, 3-3.

Miller, although performing in the losing cause, garnered 10 rebounds, tops for the Yankees.

And Larry Hisle of Portsmouth, who turned in an excellent floor game while delivering 14 points for the winners, also is headed for Ohio State.

Howell, Miller and Hisle will be teammates this winter on the Buckeye freshmen basketball squad, an indication that the cage picture at Ohio looks bright.

Others who turned in standout efforts were Bob Arnen, the 6-5 Cincinnati St. Xavier star who scored 14 and grabbed 10 rebounds.

Floyd Grabs Top Money In St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Raymond Floyd, a beefy young belter who brims with confidence on a golf course, may be ready to join the likes of Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in the power brigade on the pro golf tour.

Floyd, playing his third year on the pro tour although only 22, slammed his way to the championship in the $100,000 St. Paul Open Sunday and picked up the biggest check of his career, $20,000.

He shot a final-round 69 on wind-blown Keller golf course to take the top prize with a 72-hole total of 270 — 14 under par and four strokes better than Tommy Aaron and Gene Littler.

A native of Fayetteville, N.C., where his father once owned a golf course, Floyd now plays out of St. Andrews, Ill.

Aaron slipped to a one-over-par 72 Sunday but still tied for second with Gene Littler, who came in with a 70 for a 274 total. They won $9,750.

Dean Refram was fourth at 275 to take $5,000.

Deadlocked for fifth at 276 were Nicklaus and Bruce Devlin, while Palmer, Joe Campbell, Dick Sikes and Gardner Dickinson all had 277.

Randy Glover needed only 19 putts in shooting a 68 Sunday, tying the PGA tour record for fewest putts. But he was well back in the field for the tournament with a 284.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear friend, Joe Kennedy who passed away June 27, 1964.
Treasured thoughts of him so dear
Often bring a silent tear
Thoughts return to scenes long past
Time rolls on, but memories last Sadly missed by Pauline and daughters

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Margaret Wilson, who passed away June 26, 1962.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million — that, mother,
is you.
Just in your judgment, always right
Honest and liberal, very upright;
Loved by your friends and all who knew you.
Our wonderful mother—that mother
was you.
Sadly missed by son and daughters

Pinson, Robby Lead Reds to Double Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a better than even bet that Vada Pinson will have his best seasons in odd years.

Continuing to prove that 1965 will be no exception in his flip-flop pattern, Pinson combined with roommate Frank Robinson for nine hits and eight runs batted in as Cincinnati pounded Milwaukee 10-9 and 10-2 Sunday and moved to within one game of the National League lead.

Pinson sealed the sweep with a grand slam homer in the nightcap and wound up the day with four hits, four runs scored and four runs batted in. Robinson, who won the opener with a tie-breaking homer in the ninth, collected five hits while also scoring four and driving in four.

Pinson's 4-for-8 performance lifted his average to .311 while re-emphasizing the off-and-on pattern he has established during his seven-year major league career.

Starting with 1959, his first full year, Pinson has hit over .300 every odd-numbered year and under that level in the even-numbered seasons with averages of .316, .287, .343, .292, .313 and last year's lowest of all, .266.

With Pinson and Robinson showing the way, the Reds lashed 29 hits in the doubleheader, made it 11 victories in the last 14 games and closed considerable ground on the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers, who were walloped by Pittsburgh 10-2.

Elsewhere, St. Louis defeated Chicago 8-0 as Bob Gibson won his first game in more than a month before the Cubs took the nightcap 6-3. Philadelphia's Ray Culp shut out San Francisco 6-0 and Houston downed the New York Mets 4-2.

In the American League, Minnesota swept Detroit 6-4 and 6-5 in 10 innings, the Chicago White Sox took two from Baltimore 6-2 and 4-0, Cleveland outslugged Kansas City 10-7 in 15 innings and 11-7, Boston defeated Washington 4-1 and 5-4 in 11 innings and the New York Yankees belted the Los Angeles Angels 7-2.

The Reds built a 9-1 lead in the opener with Deron Johnson, Tony Perez and Tommy Harper hitting homers, but the Braves came back to tie the score in a wild fifth inning that cost Cincinnati eight runs, two players and a manager.

Frank Bolling and Joe Torre smashed homers during the Milwaukee uprising with Torre's blow just inside the foul line causing an argument that led to the ejection of pitcher John Tsitouris, Johnson and Manager Dick Sisler.

The nightcap was easier for the Reds, who exploded for six runs in the fourth inning, including the fifth grand slam of Pinson's career and another homer by Robinson. Jim Maloney breezed to the victory for an 8-3 record.

Jim Pagliaroni hit a three-run homer and Bill Mazeroski chipped in with a two-run shot as the Pirates handed Johnny Podres his fourth straight defeat. Bob Veale, now 8-5, checked the Dodgers on five hits and struck out 11.

Gibson, who had lost six straight after starting the season with eight victories in a row, limited the Cubs to five hits and struck out 12 in the opener while supplying the only runs the Cardinals needed with a two-run homer in the second inning.

The Cardinals built an early lead in the nightcap on Ken Boyer's homer but the Cubs eventually broke a 3-3 tie with three ninth inning runs. The tie-breaking run scored by Glenn Beckert reached first on Bill White's error and raced home on a double by Billy Williams.

Culp, now 4-4, scattered eight Giant hits while Rich Allen and Johnny Callison supplied the power for the Phillies. Allen rapped four hits and drove in two runs after Callison got Philadelphia rolling with his 14th homer, in the first.

Bob Bruce, 6-9, pitched five perfect innings for the Astros and allowed just three hits but needed Mike Cuellar to put down a ninth inning Mets' uprising. Bruce singled a run home for Houston, Lee Mays homered and Jim Wynn doubled in what turned out to be the deciding run in the eighth.

Slow Pitch Tourney Set at Washington

Washington C. H. Softball Assn. will hold an invitational slow pitch tournament, starting July 2.

A double elimination tournament, trophies will be awarded to first and second place teams.

Teams wishing to enter may contact Glen Helmick, 814 Leesburg Ave., Washington C. H., by Wednesday. Drawing will be 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The Detroit Tigers were shut out only six times in 1964, low for the American League.

Tarheel Back Is Star Of All-American Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Willard, a powerful 230-pound running back from North Carolina, may turn out to be the rookie phenomenon of the pro football season with the San Francisco 49ers.

"He runs so low they can't get at him," said teammate Dick Butkus of Illinois Saturday night after Willard gained 133 yards in 18 carries for the East in a 34-14 victory over the West in the fifth All-American game.

Willard's yardage total was a record for this pre-season affair and earned him the game's most valuable player award.

John Huarte, the New York Jets' $200,000 prize package from Notre Dame, provided the big scoring punch for Coach Ara Parseghian's East team. The quarterback hit Notre Dame's Jack Snow and Syracuse's Jim Nance with touchdown tosses, scored once himself on a three-yard keeper and kicked four conversions. Tom Nowatzke of Indiana and Rolfe Stichweh of Army scored the other East touchdowns.

Gale Sayers of Kansas, a flashy rookie prospect for the Chicago Bears, was outstanding in the first half and wound up with 52 yards on 18 carries for the night. Sayers scored one West touchdown and the other came on a 15-yard run by Rick Redman of Washington after intercepting a Huarte pass.

Butkus, an East linebacker who will join Sayers with the Bears, made 16 tackles and played an outstanding defensive game.

Jeff Jordan of Tulsa doubled up. As a safety he broke up an East scoring threat by knocking down a pass in the end zone and also caught four passes for the West. Snow and Larry Elkins of Baylor each caught five passes, and Bob Hayes, the Olympic sprint champ from Florida A&M, caught four and was a constant threat as a punt return man. Hayes' best was a 41-yard gainer on a pass from Navy's Roger Staubach.

Huarte played most of the game and completed 10 of 23 passes for 82 yards. The West divided the work among three quarterbacks. Craig Morton of California hit with four of 12, Jerry Rhyme of Tulsa connected with six of 10 and Bob Perry of Oregon completed two of three.

"Willard has astonishing speed, especially for his size," said Parseghian, who coached the East against Arkansas' Frank Broyles, coach of the West. "Ken weighs around 230 but he has speed and agility. He runs over you but he also can make you miss him."

"And that Butkus is really strong. On defense, Butkus, Marty Schottenheimer of Pitt and Verlon Biggs of Jackson State were outstanding."

The Eastern players raved about the job done by their center, Bill Curry of Georgia Tech. "He's the hardest charging guy I've ever seen," said Willard.

Tarheel Back Is Star Of All-American Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Willard, a powerful 230-pound running back from North Carolina, may turn out to be the rookie phenomenon of the pro football season with the San Francisco 49ers.

"He runs so low they can't get at him," said teammate Dick Butkus of Illinois Saturday night after Willard gained 133 yards in 18 carries for the East in a 34-14 victory over the West in the fifth All-American game.

Willard's yardage total was a record for this pre-season affair and earned him the game's most valuable player award.

John Huarte, the New York Jets' $200,000 prize package from Notre Dame, provided the big scoring punch for Coach Ara Parseghian's East team. The quarterback hit Notre Dame's Jack Snow and Syracuse's Jim Nance with touchdown tosses, scored once himself on a three-yard keeper and kicked four conversions. Tom Nowatzke of Indiana and Rolie Stichweh of Army scored the other East touchdowns.

Gale Sayers of Kansas, a flashy rookie prospect for the Chicago Bears, was outstanding in the first half and wound up with 52 yards on 18 carries for the night. Sayers scored one West touchdown and the other came on a 15-yard run by Rick Redman of Washington after intercepting a Huarte pass.

Butkus, an East linebacker who will join Sayers with the Bears, made 16 tackles and played an outstanding defensive game.

Jeff Jordan of Tulsa doubled up. As a safety he broke up an East scoring threat by knocking down a pass in the end zone and also caught four passes for the West. Snow and Larry Elkins of Baylor each caught five passes, and Bob Hayes, the Olympic sprint champ from Florida A&M, caught four and was a constant threat as a punt return man. Hayes' best was a 41-yard gainer on a pass from Navy's Roger Staubach.

Huarte played most of the game and completed 10 of 23 passes for 82 yards. The West divided the work among three quarterbacks. Craig Morton of California hit with four of 12, Jerry Rhome of Tulsa connected with six of 10 and Bob Perry of Oregon completed two of three.

"Willard has astonishing speed, especially for his size," said Parseghian, who coached the East against Arkansas' Frank Broyles, coach of the West. "Ken weighs around 230 but he has speed and agility. He runs over you but he also can make you miss him."

"And that Butkus is really strong. On defense, Butkus, Marty Schottenheimer of Pitt and Verlon Biggs of Jackson State were outstanding."

The Eastern players raved about the job done by their center, Bill Curry of Georgia Tech. "He's the hardest charging guy I've ever seen," said Willard.

Monroeville Cycle Wins Ohio Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — George Roeder of Monroeville, Ohio, grabbed the lead shortly after the start and roared to victory in the 10-mile motorcycle race feature at the Ohio Expositions Center Sunday.

Roeder covered the distance in 8:57.6. Second was Gary Nixon of Baltimore, Md.

Heat winners in the expert class were Ronnie Rall of Mansfield; Bert Markel of Flint, Mich., and Nixon.

Bob Swift, who managed the Detroit Tigers this spring during Charlie Dressen's recuperation from a heart attack, caught to the Tigers in 1945, the last year they won the American League pennant.
